Today

Now They Will Talk.
For Erring Souls.
Milk on the Highway.
And Plenty About War.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

PLENTY NEWS to start the week.

Sir Ronald Lindsay comes back from London as fast as the Majestic can bring him, and will talk today with President-elect Roosevelt about European debts and "a new deal" in world economics.

The new deal, presumably, will mean that Uncle Sam must get along without his money.

Sir Ronald, like all good British diplomats, will say more than any one man could understand. So Roosevelt has sent for Bernard M. Baruch to help him listen and answer. And Prof. Raymond Moley, very deep, will be there, observing with William H. Woodin, who also knows about money.

IN ROME, on the occasion of a saint's beatification, Pope Pius prayed publicly for the souls of Russians, Mexicans and Spaniards—for Russians, repudiating religion and the existence of God; for Spaniards and Mexicans, confiscating the property of the church and without religious leadership.

Violent are changes when revolution comes. This condition in Spain could not have been predicted.

IN WISCONSIN, highways are white with floods of milk, twenty-five thousand pounds, in a few hours, poured out in a milk war. Organized farmers demand one dollar and forty cents for a hundred pounds of milk, less than three cents a quart.

They are paid now only sixty cents per 100 pounds, a little more than one cent a quart, and are fighting against farmers who sell at that price because they must have money to live.

IN WASHINGTON today the representatives will declare officially that the "noble experiment" of prohibition was a mistake and will vote to repeal the Eighteenth amendment.

Whether, and how soon, repeal will come, no one can say. The people have voted against prohibition, bootlegging and the crime wave that came with both, but getting rid of that trinity is another proposition.

THERE IS war in the air in Europe, and there may be literally WAR IN THE AIR, since the air is to be the location of future wars. The French send severe orders to Austria forbidding arms shipments through Austrian territory to Italy.

This order of the French to beaten and humiliated Austria, Germany calls "one of the most brutal ultimatums of history."

The French message to Austria is taken as a blow at Germany.

An anti-French combination of Italy, Austria and Germany, in view of Germany's great commercial air fleet and Italy's powerful fighting fleet, might be serious news for Paris, despite the fact that France is far ahead of all Europe in the air.

GERMANY AND Italy combined have more trained pilots than the French. All three are equipped to produce planes, explosives and poison gas on short notice.

You may awake some morning to read that art treasures are being buried underground beyond the reach of bombs in important European cities. It is some comfort to know that this country would not join any such renewal of international murder, with men or with money. The enlightening words, "Uncle Shylock," make that certain.

IN CHINA war is a reality. Yosuke Matsuoka, speaking for Japan, regrettably supposes his country will have to abandon the League of Nations.

Meanwhile trainloads of Japanese troops, armored cars, airplanes and ammunition are pouring into Chinese territory. Fifty thousand of the best Japanese fighters are face to face with two hundred and five thousand Chinese troops, as brave, but not as well trained.

Correspondents describe the military preparations in the East as recalling the start of the Russian-Japanese war.

MR. HITLER, temporary boss of Germany, used to announce that when he came into power he would drive out all the Jews. He seems to have forgotten about that, WISELY.

At present his government is undertaking to "gag the Catholics." Catholic newspapers in Prussia are suppressed, and it is suggested that suppression will extend to the other German states, including those overwhelmingly Catholic.

If Mr. Hitler proceeds with that program, he will prepare for himself troubles not easy to meet.

IT WAS one thing for a man of Bismarck's power and prestige to say: "Wir gehen nicht nach Canossa." "We are not going to Canossa," referring to the humble submission and penance of the German Emperor Henry Fourth before Pope Gregory the Seventh, almost nine hundred years ago in the mountain castle of the Countess Matilda of Tuscany.

Mr. Hitler different in size, mentally and physically, from Prince Bismarck. And the Catholic party in Germany today is bigger, more powerful, more ably led than in Bismarck's day.

JAMES J. CORBETT, "Gentleman Jim," never very strong, but an extremely skillful boxer, is dead at the age of sixty-six.

80-Year Term

GIUSEPPE ZANGARA

Zangara's Own Story Of Crime

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 20.—(INS.)—In his own words, Giuseppe Zangara today told in court that his plot to assassinate President-elect Roosevelt was born of a "pain in the stomach."

Zangara was questioned personally by the Judge who asked him what were the motives behind the attempted assassination. Zangara replied:

"My stomach hurt. I suffered in the head. I decided to make him suffer. I wanted to make it fifty-fifty."

The judge spoke to Zangara.

Q.—Zangara, how old are you?
A.—33.
Q.—Where were you born?
A.—Italy.
Q.—How long have you been in this country?
A.—In September, 1922.
Q.—Did you ever harm anyone in Italy?
A.—No. I never harmed anyone.

HAD NO PLAN

Q.—Did you plan this thing in advance?
A.—No. It just came to me.
Q.—You mean you thought of it in the Bay Front park?
A.—Yes. I got it in my mind to hate capitalists. They make me work. Suffer!
Q.—Did you make good money?
A.—Yes, but I suffer all the time. I suffer all the time.
Q.—When did the notion to kill Roosevelt first come?
A.—I read in the paper he

Hotel Robbers Lock Four in Refrigerator

BRADFORD, Pa., Feb. 20.—Four men, including the waiter in charge, were locked in the refrigerator of the Option House early today by two robbers, who fled with $400. Robert Bowler, Bradford Era pressroom employe, released them when he went to the restaurant for breakfast. They had been confined 20 minutes.

HOUSE PASSES DRY REPEAL; NEXT ACTION UP TO STATES

EIGHTY-YEAR TERM FOR ASSASSIN

Zangara Jeers at Sentence; Asks For Hundred

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Florida justice, moving swiftly, today gave Giusseppe Zangara, the Italian assassin, the limit of the law—80 years in prison—for four cases of attempt to murder in connection with his unsuccessful effort to assassinate President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, on February 15.

Scornfully, the swarthy little man who boldly declared he had no regret for his act, and asserted he conceived the deed because of his hatred of capitalists and stomach pains, turned to Judge E. C. Collins and asked for a longer sentence. Holding up eight fingers he shouted:

Then, the assassin, laughing, was led from the courtroom.

Judge Collins, as he left the bench, said:

PLEADS GUILTY

Zangara's sentence came closely on his plea of guilty on four counts that he attempted to kill Mr. Roosevelt, Russell Caldwell, Coconut Grove, Fla., Miss Margaret Kruis, Newark, N. J., and W. J. Sinnott, New York policeman.

Although a sanity commission had reported Zangara to have a "psychopathic personality," and to be a social misfit, the prisoner disdained to try to escape prison by offering insanity as an excuse for his wild deed.

He calmly sat in the witness chair and told Judge Collins he decided to kill President-elect Roosevelt "to make him suffer, since my stomach hurt."

WANTED '50-50'

He said he would "make it 50-50 with the President" on suffering and get even with capitalists by "killing the President."

Asked if he wanted to live, Zangara shrugged his shoulders:

"I no care. I sick all time. I just think maybe cops kill me if I kill President. Somebody hit my arm when I try it. They fools. They should let me do it.

"My stomach afire all time."

The assassin did express regret that he shot Mayor Anton Cermak, of Chicago, and the others.

Mayor Cermak and Mrs. Joe Gill, Miami society woman, lie seriously wounded at the Jackson Memorial Hospital here. If either should die, Zangara will be indicted for first degree murder.

Even if Cermak and Mrs. Gill live, Zangara will realize his request of the court today. He will be charged and tried in those cases.

Four in Plot Hoax Freed, Fifth Held

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(INS.)—Four of the five men arrested Saturday in connection with a letter threatening harm to President-elect Roosevelt have been released by police here, who today characterized the missive as a "practical joke."

The fifth man, Patrick McCartin, was held for immigration authorities. Those released were Edward T. Rodriguez, Frank Petiti, W. D. Birmingham, H. T. Thompson all of this city.

U. S. GUARDS AMERICANS IN CHINA

By JOHN GOETTE
International News Service.

PEIPING, Feb. 20.—Dispatches telling of Japan's formal decision to renounce membership in the League of Nations and launch her drive against Jehol Province electrified Peiping today.

With fears expressed that the threatening hostilities in Jehol may start a conflagration throughout North China, American marines and infantrymen took steps to guard American lives and property.

T. V. Soong, acting premier, when advised of the Japanese cabinet's decision, said:

"All North China is a powder magazine.

"The Japanese invasion of Jehol may provide the spark for a general conflagration.

"Outwardly, things appear calm, but the long suffering of the army of North China at the hands of the Japanese has been beyond endurance.

"I feel that when the test comes, the people of North China will prove as patriotic as those of the South."

JAPAN TENSE

TOKIO, Feb. 20. — (INS.)—A tidal wave of nationalistic sentiment swept Japan tonight as the nation demonstrated its approval of the cabinet's decision to quit the League of Nations and launch the drive for "pacification" of Jehol province without delay.

Plans for mass meetings and military demonstrations were announced only a few hours after the cabinet of Premier Viscount Saito took the long-expected step of formally deciding upon secession if the League Assembly adopts the committee report condemning Japan's activities in Manchuria.

Determined to throw 50,000 troops into Jehol within the next

Judges Weigh Plea To Save Doomed Dog

Presiding Judge Samuel H. Gardner and Visiting Judge R. L. Reed, of Cambria County, were to confer today on the petition for modification of the death sentence imposed upon Sandy, East Pittsburgh mongrel, by Judge Reed 10 days ago.

The petition, presented by Attorney C. D. Coll last week, asks that the parole imposed upon Frank Sechan, Sandy's owner, be modified to allow the dog to live. Sandy was sentenced to death as a condition of a six-month parole imposed upon Sechan, who pleaded guilty to keeping a vicious dog.

Footpads or Auto Blamed for Death

A man found dead today in the 1100 block in Ross street, Wilkinsburg, with his hands in his pockets, was either struck from behind by footpads or hit by an automobile, an autopsy revealed.

A pay check of the McClintic-Marshall Company plant at Rankin indicated the victim was Andrew Piccerillo, of 107 Beatty street, Wilkinsburg. His skull had been crushed.

Carnegie and Schwab

Charles M. Schwab appears in the story for the first time. We find him as a youthful clerk in Spiegelmire's general store in Braddock, where he attracts the attention and gains the favor of Capt. "Bill" Jones, manager of Carnegie's Edgar Thomson mills.

F. R. AWAITING LINDSAY

By GEORGE E. DURNO,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—President-elect Roosevelt definitely took negotiation of European debt revision in his own hands today, despite the fact inauguration is still almost two weeks off.

As soon as the S. S. Majestic docks this afternoon, he will see Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador, back fresh from several weeks of conferences with his home office over terms intended to reduce finally England's $4,500,000,000 debt to the United States.

The Majestic arrived this morning but anchored at Sandy Hook because the harbor was blanketed by fog.

The President-elect attended the funeral of Mrs. Douglas Robinson, sister of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, this morning.

PARIS, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour said today that he expects debt negotiations with the United States will be resumed after March 4.

Discussing this issue with the press, he refrained from indicating what form the new negotiations might take, but he made it plain that the matter will be taken up with the Roosevelt administration.

Ministers Oppose Sunday Sports Bill

A resolution adopted today by the Methodist Episcopal Ministerial Association here, protesting the Schwartz Sunday Sports bill, will be sent to the Senate Law and Order Committee, to which the measure was referred following its passage by the House.

SUNDAY SPORTS BILL PERILED

HARRISBURG, Feb. 20.—The Schwartz bill, legalizing outdoor sports on Sunday between the hours of 2 and 6 p. m., is in danger of being coddled to death in the Senate, or at least amended until it becomes nothing more than a baseball bill for Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

A Senate subcommittee consisting of Senators Salus, Philadelphia; Staudenmeier, Schuylkill, and Snyder, Lehigh, is expected to make a preliminary report tonight on amendments to the measure, which passed the House two weeks ago by an overwhelming majority. One suggestion which finds general favor is that a 10 per cent tax shall be put on Sunday admissions.

But on the question of how the bill shall be amended to permit local option there is hopeless division.

Out of this controversy has come a suggestion, promoted by Philadelphia Senators, that the bill be rewritten to apply only to Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

WILD OUTBURST MARKS WET VICTORY; VOTE 289 TO 121

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—The 13-year-old constitutional amendment for national prohibition went back to the states for a new decision today, on a 289 to 121 vote in the House of Representatives.

Duplicating the Senate action last week, when it favored submission of a repeal amendment to state conventions by a 63 to 23 vote, the House acted before being in session an hour and a half, cheered on by part of the galleries and in the face of ominous silence on the part of others there.

The latter represented many of the prohibition organizations, which served notice at once through the Anti-Saloon League that the issue would be "fought to a finish in state capitals."

The vote was 15 more than the two-third required.

Speaker John N. Garner was greeted with cheers and applause on announcing the outcome.

Immediately, Chairman Sumners of the Judiciary Committee and others moved for a federal law setting up the machinery for state conventions. A hard road was in front for this effort, however, as Mr. Garner and others on both sides of the Capitol have expressed the view that calling of the conventions is a state function.

VOTE BY PARTIES

Thirty-two Democrats and 89 Republicans voted against the resolution; 181 Democrats, the one Farmer-Labor member and 107 Republicans voted for it.

Last-minute shifts by a number of Democrats and Republicans who voted against the Garner outright repeal proposal on the first day of Congress sent the resolution to the State Department. The Secretary of State will notify the Governors of the states of the action.

It is the first time in history that Congress has voted to resubmit an amendment to the Constitution to the people.

There was a wild burst as Garner announced the result, stilled only by the pounding of his gavel.

On both sides of the aisle, wets

State Votes 24-11 For Repeal

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Twenty-four members of the Pennsylvania House delegation today voted for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and 11 opposed it.

Those in favor included Campbell, Estep, Sullivan and Erk, of Allegheny County; Wyant, of Greensburg; Coyle, of Bethlehem; Shreve, of Erie; Stull, of Johnstown, and Doutrich, of Harrisburg.

Opposed were Kelly, of Edgewood; Cockran, of Mercer; Strong, of Brookville; Swick, of Beaver Falls, and Temple, of Washington.

Roosevelt Pleased, Hopes for Beer Bill

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—President-elect Roosevelt expressed gratification today at the adoption by Congress of the repeal resolution and added a hope that this session also will enact beer legislation.

States Act To Hurry Repeal

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—President-elect Roosevelt's home state moved quickly today to act under the Eighteenth Amendment repeal vote in Congress and submit the repeal question to the voters.

Assemblyman Saul Streit, New York City Democrat, said he would ask at tonight's meeting of the Legislature that his bill setting up machinery for a state convention be reported at once.

MASSACHUSETTS MOVE

BOSTON, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Gov. Joseph B. Ely today asked the legislature to pass legislation providing for a state convention to ratify action of Congress in submitting to the states the question of repealing the Eighteenth Amendment.

WEST VIRGINIA ACTION

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—A legislative committee of six to pave the way for a West Virginia convention on the question of repealing the Eighteenth Amendment was proposed in a resolution prepared for introduction in the House of Delegates today.

Sponsored by Delegate Beach (Dem.), of Cabell, the resolution set out that Congress today adopted a resolution submitting the question of repeal to the states and that it will be necessary to pass in West Virginia appropriate legislation authorizing the calling of a convention.

WYOMING SEEKS SPEED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—A head start for Wyoming to be the first state to act on the prohibition repeal resolution was sought today by Senator Carey (Rep.), of Wyoming, who planned to telegraph a copy of the resolution to Gov. Leslie A. Miller.

PENNA. CONFUSED

Human 'Cannonball' Killed at Carnival

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Martin Brado, a carnival performer billed under the name of "Leinert, the Human Cannon Ball," was killed in a performance of his act here last night.

Brado, shot from a cannon as a feature of the Manila Carnival, landed awkwardly in net-ful. His back was broken. Barrage.

Man Saves Invalid Wife, 3 Children in Fire

An invalid wife was lowered from a second floor window by a rope made of bed clothing, and three children were helped to safety down a porch pillar when fire trapped them on the second floor of their home, Brodhead road, Center Township, near Aliquippa, early today.

The rescuer was Louis Trasport, 33, husband of Laura Trasport, 22, ill for two months and father of the children, Louis, Jr., 12, Naomi, 13, and Emil 10.

Trasport, finding the flames had swept from the basement to the second floor, tied bed clothing together and lowered his wife to the ground. Then he awakened the children and led them across the porch roof and helped them down the pillar. The house, valued at $10,000 was destroyed.

Girl Leaps Into River As 2 Try to Save Her

The Ohio River was being dragged under the Sewickley Bridge today for the body of Margaret Haney, 20, reported to have leaped from the bridge last night.

Two girls told Police Chief Harold Rhodes, of Sewickley, that they saw a young woman climb the rail. They seized her coat sleeves but she pulled loose and plunged, leaving her purse in the hands of the girls, they reported.

A key in the purse fitted a door in the home of Robert W. McKnight at Glen Osborne, where Miss Haney was employed as a cook.

Mr. McKnight said that Miss Haney, who came here a year ago from Ireland, had said Saturday she was going to the home of a friend who had died.

HOUSE PASSES DRY REPEAL RESOLUTION BY 289 TO 121

CHEERS GREET RESULT OF ROLL CALL

TENSE DEBATE

For 40 tense minutes, the House rang with long familiar arguments on both sides of the prohibition question — then undertook the vote.

Applause and taunts now and again broke out in the thronged galleries, where were seated many of the figures prominent for and against the Eighteenth Amendment.

There was so much noise and confusion Speaker Garner pounded the gavel repeatedly and warned the members to keep order.

Representative Rainey, the majority leader, told the House:

"I will vote for this amendment as I have voted for the other five that have been submitted during my service here."

Opposing the resolution, Representative Nelson (Rep.), of Maine, said:

"No member of this House will live to see national prohibition repealed."

During the speech of Representative Eaton (Rep.), of Colorado, advocating an amendment, a short row was precipitated when Representative Britten (Rep.), of Illinois, sought to ask him a question.

Blanton shouted at Britten:

"The gentleman is out of order."

Britten roared back:

"Sit down."

Representative Oliver (Dem.), of New York, said:

"The fight for repeal is not led by heirarchy of any church, it is led by the lower-archy of all the churches."

For the resolution, Representative Sabath (Dem.), of Illinois, said:

Representative Mary T. Norton (Dem.), of New Jersey, said:

BECK FOR REPEAL

Representative Beck, (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, long an anti-prohibition leader, said for the first time since prohibition "we are going to give the people a chance to say whether they want to retain the Eighteenth Amendment.

He said there had been an attempt to convert the "United States" into a "United State." He said:

"We are about to undo a wrong which 10 years of experience has proved is wrong. This is a significant day in history."

Representative Dyer, (Rep.), of Missouri, said:

"This is not a question of return of the saloon. It is a question of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. I am proud to be here to help take that amendment out of the constitution that was put here over my protest years ago."

Representative Blanton said that "from every mother in this country there comes today a cry, "Hold that line."

When he started to read a letter saying he believed "hypocrital preachers can keep you in office" and "keep your nose out of prohibition," Blanton said he was going to present a "threatening" message.

"It says—," he shouted, only to be interrupted by an ananymous cry of "hold that line!"

Representative La Guardia (Rep.), of New York, said:

"I am in favor of this resolution not because I think liquor is good but because I think prohibition is bad."

Representative Hoch (Rep.), of Kansas, denounced the resolution, saying:

"If ratified, it will mean a return of the saloon; it is a surrender to the liquor traffic."

Winding up for the opposition, Representative Moore (Rep.), of Ohio, said:

"This means we are going back 100 years. I am supporting prohibition because I believe it is the best way in which to handle the liquor traffic."

REPEAL ISSUE DELAYS BILLS IN ASSEMBLY

Uncertainty Prevails Over Method of Procedure

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Feb. 20.—Uncertainty as to how the Legislature shall set up machinery for the selection of delegates to a convention to consider repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment threatens to stymie all other legislation for two or three weeks.

The basis for the selection of delegates, as well as whether they shall be chosen at a special or regular election, is the principal topic discussed among legislators arriving today for tonight's session. There is a growing sentiment for choosing the delegates by congressional districts, but divergent opinion as to how many delegates shall be elected from the state's 34 congressional districts.

OBJECTIONS TO PLAN

It is argued that under the Lawrence plan in some districts there may be 15 or 20 candidates, with the organized drys having a slate of three and the wets a like group. But one of these three on either side might be personally unsatisfactory to some voters who would vote for another candidate of the same persuasion. This would scatter the vote, either wet or dry, and might result in the election of mixed delegations from districts.

Time for holding the election also is a controversial question. Republican state organization leaders, while not talking for quotation, are known to consider the advisability of choosing the delegates next November to avoid the costs of a special election, which they estimate at $1,500,000.

REPEAL VOTE

Meanwhile, an effort may be made to force to a vote in the House the Sowers-Connor state dry repeal act, action on which was held up last week with the consent of the authors on the assumption that a commission, authorized in another Sowers measure to study the whole liquor license and control question, would be appointed.

Speaker Grover C. Talbot did not, however, name the commission, which has aroused the ire of Sowers. Some of the wets are charging that Talbot, under the influence of the state committee chiefs, is trying to straddle on prohibition, a policy which has been forcefully evident since the Republican national convention.

Her Jewelry Stolen

GRACE MOORE . . . THIEVES TRAILED HER FOR 70 MILES

Miss Moore, the opera singer, robbed of jewelry valued at $81,000 by thieves who rifled her hotel suite at Miami. Miss Moore said the loss was unprotected by insurance, that the robbers had probably trailed her from nearby Palm Beach, where she had sung.

COSTIGAN AID BILL URGED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(INS.)—Urging the enactment of the La Follette-Costigan bill, with its fund of $500,000,000 for direct emergency relief to the states, Senator Costigan (Dem.), of Colorado, today told the Senate that private charity had collapsed throughout the nation.

Costigan painted a dark picture of human suffering among the unemployed. He said the American people were "in general in dire need and on the verge of extreme want." He compared the unemployment emergency with such "major disasters such as earthquakes, floods and fire."

8 HELD AFTER PARTY DEATH

Four men and four women were turned over to homicide detectives today in connection with the death of Guy Saunders, 26, of Sewickley road, in a fall early Sunday from a third-story window of the Lincoln apartment, 305 Atwood street. They were arraigned before Magistrate J. J. O'Connor at Oakland Police Station.

The accident, police reported, occurred in the apartment of Frances Wilds, 33, and Margaret O'Donnell, 31, during a party celebrating the birthday of Joseph Margola, of 317 Fifth street, Braddock.

The women, with Stella Luke, of Butler street, Millvale, and Stella May Keller, of 526 McClintock avenue, told police they were in a bedroom when Saunders fell.

The men—Steve Tishko, of Third street, Rankin; Louis Katanick, of Fourth street, Rankin; Thomas Ballent, of Baldridge street, and Margola—were in the living room, police were told.

PRIVATE DEBTS CUT URGED FOR PROSPERITY

Cleveland Financier Proposes Plan to Senate Committee

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP.) — Readjustment of private and war debts, balancing the budget and restoration of confidence were advocated today before the Senate Finance Committee by Leonard P. Ayres, Cleveland financier, as among the necessary steps to bring back better times.

Ayres' views were contained in a telegram asking that he be excused from appearing before the committee in its study of economic conditions and possible remedial steps.

MARINES GUARD AMERICANS

24 hours, the foreign office made an eleventh-hour attempt to avert prolonged hostilities and a possible open declaration of war.

A foreign office spokesman proposed that the Nanking government and Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang immediately withdraw all their troops from the disputed province. This would leave only irregulars and volunteers defending the territory and make possible Japan's annexation of the province to Manchukuo a mere formality.

CABINET DECLARATION

The cabinet's decision to secede from the League, reached in the early hours of the morning after an all-night session, was embodied in a formal declaration which will be transmitted to Geneva forthwith. If the Assembly adopts the committee report, it was announced, the government will announce its withdrawal "and will take the time of secession under careful consideration."

Sentiment of the nation regarding withdrawal was clearly manifested.

Fifty thousand reservists, representing 3,000,000 ex-service men, will meet in North Tokio at noon tomorrow to signify the army's approval of the step. More than 1,000 police will be assigned to the meeting to prevent "undue outbreaks of enthusiasm."

Another meeting will be held in the heart of the capital, directly opposite the Imperial Hotel. Five thousand prominent persons, including leading journalists, statesmen and business executives will gather to shout "banzais" for the nation's future, now that Japan has decided upon a course which threatens to isolate her from the western world.

Both demonstrations will be broadcast throughout the island empire.

CLASHES AT JEHOL

SHANGHAI, Feb. 20.—(INS.)—Frequent skirmishes between Japanese and Chinese forces in Jehol occurred today as both armies maneuvered into strategic positions for a major conflict.

Chinese volunteers cut the Tahushan-Tungliao and Peipaio-Nanling railroads in order to interrupt the Japanese line of communications.

The Chinese also tore up a section of the Peiping-Shanhaikwan Railroad between Chingwangtao and Wycengchun, using the rails in building defense works along the Shi River.

Safe Crackers Fail To Get Church Cash

Safe crackers, who obviously were amateurs, failed to open the safe of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church, Center and Aiken avenues, during the night and left without loot, it was reported today by Theodore Dawson, janitor. The attempted robbery, the fourth in two months, was discovered this morning when Dawson came to the church. The burglars had gained entrance by smashing a basement window. They ransacked the place, including the rectory of the pastor, the Rev. F. E. Kearns.

Subsidy to Jobless Urged by Thomas

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Subsidization of consumption by allowing a Federal grant or $10 weekly to every unemployed head of a family and $5 weekly to every unemployed single man or woman, was urged by Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, in an address last night.

He was allowed to believe he suffered from heart disease, although cancer killed him.

He fought and conquered John L. Sullivan, when the real John L. Sullivan had long since disappeared, eliminated by whisky. The Duke of Wellington fought, and, with the aid of Blucher, conquered Napoleon, when the real Napoleon was no longer there.

Foolish living, lack of sleep, bolting his food had helped to remove Napoleon's mainspring. Busy, worried American businessmen, take warning.

Lindy Probe Prisoner To Sue 9 Penna. Men

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Nine Western Pennsylvania men, charged with kidnaping and conspiracy in connection with a strange aftermath of the Lindbergh baby kidnaping, are expected to go on trial in Clearfield during the week of February 27.

Garrett Schenck, 47, a New Jersey fish peddler, claims J. J. Devine, a Johnstown private detective, and eight others conspired to hold him prisoner as a suspect in the Lindbergh case after he was taken from his home nea. the famous flier's estate at Hopewell.

Schenck alleges he was kept in a certain cabin near DuBois for seven months until he was freed last September 4 through the efforts of Eddie McCloskey, Mayor of Johnstown.

Constantly during that time—June 10 to September 3—he was questioned about the abduction of Charles, Jr., infant son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, who was found slain while a worldwide search for him and his kidnapers was under way, the peddler claims.

Schenck denied any knowledge of the crime.

ONE OF VICTIMS SING SING FUGITIVE

Newsboy Finds Three Bodies Slumped Near Bar

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—John Sweeney, peddling his papers, pushed into the midtown speakeasy known as "Porky's Place" early today and stumbled upon triple murder.

On the floor before the bar lay the bodies of a young brunette, attractive, and of John Egan, bandit and burglar, of New York and New Jersey, who performed last December the rare feat of escaping from Sing Sing prison. Behind the bar was the body of Michael Griffin, 45, bartender.

Each had been killed by a shot which entered the right side of the head.

WOMAN UNIDENTIFIED

Police did not know who the woman was. She was about 25, attractive and modishly attired.

Sweeney, making his regular round of the midtown speakeasy belt with his newspapers, had run up the short flight of steps of the brownstone house at 267 West Fifty-second street. Passing through the hall, he found the barroom door ajar. The bodies of the man and woman were almost at his feet as he entered.

On the bar were four one dollar bills and some silver—change. In the inside pocket of Egan's coat was a fully loaded .38 caliber pistol.

The shooting was done at close range. There were powder burns about the heads of all three victims. Robbery was not the motive, police said, as money in the cash register and in the men's pockets had not been touched.

FIND CLUES

Escape was by way of a back yard in which were found two pencils and a grey fedora hat. On these clues police set store today. It was recalled that earlier this month a pencil was the clue that led to solution of the murder of a young woman on Long Island.

Police suggested that the shooting may have been over attentions paid to the young woman, or that it may have been a gang affair; but these were patently guesses.

"Porky's Place," police said, has been in business for five years. It has been known as a resort popular with Broadway habitues of the "dawn patrol" and especially with the "sporting crowd." The speakeasy, masked by the sombre brownstone front, is across the street from the Alvin Theater. A few doors to the east is the playhouse of the Theater Guild. It is between Eighth avenue and Broadway.

BROKER KILLED IN CAR CRASH

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 20.—One Pittsburgh broker was killed and his partner in a realty concern was injured seriously when their auto crashed into a bridge at Triadelphia on the National Highway early today.

Fred H. Memhard, of Mt. Lebanon, engaged in the food brokerage business, died in the Ohio Valley Hospital at 5:15 a. m. H. P. Sweeney, 31, of 3134 Boustead street, Beechview, is in the hospital. Memhard and Sweeney, interested in the Fort Pitt Realty Company, with offices in the Magee Building, were en route to Louisville, Ky.

MICHIGAN BANK BILLS WAITED

DETROIT, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Michigan looked to the State Legislature today for assistance in working their way out of the problems which last Tuesday resulted in the proclamation of an eight-day banking holiday.

The bankers worked with state and federal officials throughout the week-end to devise measures which would guarante the funds of depositors and insure the resumption of normal or near-normal business after the expiration of the holiday period Thursday.

What action the Legislature will take when it assembles at Lansing tonight was not definitely known today. Among the bills ready for introduction are those making legal Gov. William A. Comstock's proclamation of the holiday, extending the power of the State Banking Commission to permit him to limit withdrawals after the holiday is over and giving the Governor extraordinary powers in dealing with the situation.,

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Senator Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, today introduced his bill to permit any state emergency banking programs to be made applicable to national banks. It was referred to the Banking Committee.

KIDNAP VICTIM'S FATHER SPLITS WITH POLICE

Fail to Find Link in Killing of Denver Underworld King

DENVER, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—A definite split between the Boettcher family and police and indication that the killing of Joseph P. Roma, Denver's underworld king, had no connection with the kidnaping of Charles Boettcher, shunted the combined investigation into separate channels today.

The announcement of Claude K. Boettcher, Colorado multi-millionaire and father of the missing broker, that he had received communications which convinced him his son was alive and well preceded a few hours Chief of Police A. T. Clark's disclosure that he had been unable to link the Roma killing with the abduction.

CONFERS WITH RECTOR

Pursuing his independent investigation the elder Boettcher conferred again with the Rev. B. D. Dagwell, rector of Fashionable St. John's Episcopal Church, whose mail was ordered scrutinized closely by postal authorities. Dean Dagwell was believed to be acting as intermediary for the Boettcher family.

Contents of notes, which the multimillionarie said convinced him he finally had contacted the kidnapers, were withheld from authorities. He said:

"I feel I must and will act independently if the opportunity is presented."

He revealed that his letter to the kidnapers had asked them to establish contact with some go-between.

FOLLOW CLUES

Meanwhile police continued their investigation of the abduction by running down several clues which Clark insisted "looked right." Other authorities sought the killers of Roma and turned toward the underworld for a solution. Clark said he first believed Roma may have been slain because of a conference he held with Roma in reference to the Boettcher case.

Two men, F. H. Rotitto and Frank Mortellaro, a brother of Vincent Mortellaro, whose assassination Roma was once accused of plotting, are in jail. They were arrested Saturday near Roma's home, where the gangster was found shot to death.

The strain of a strenuous week began telling on Mrs. Anna Lou Boettcher, wife of the missing man. Her mother, Mrs. H. H. Pigott, of Helena, Mont., arrived over the week-end to be with her daughter, who is an expectant mother.

Auto Plant Strike Near Settlement

DETROIT, Feb. 20.—(INS.)—Peaceful settlement of the Briggs Manufacturing Company strike appeared near today, after officials of the automobile body concern had met in a peace conference with strike leaders.

President Walter Briggs told the strike committee the company had met all demands of the strikers except the recognition of a shop committee. On this issue, the crux of the controversy, the company would stand firm, he declared.

MAYOR CERMAK RECOVERY SEEN

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—After consultation with the five physicians attending Mayor Anton Cermak, of Chicago, Dr. Frederick Tice, Chicago heart specialist, issued a statement today saying:

"I believe we may look forward to full recovery of the Mayor.

"Physical examination reveals no evidence of pneumonia or infection. While there is some evidence of heart strain, there is nothing to cause anxiety."

Mrs. Joe H. Gill, also wounded critically in the attempted assassination of President-elect Roosevelt last Wednesday night, was reported today to be "coming along nicely."

Rob Detroit Theater Opposite City Hall

DETROIT, Feb. 20.—(INS.)—Two bandits robbed the Blackstone Theater, opposite City Hall, of $3,500 today. They posed as telephone repairmen to gain entrance to the basement office where week-end receipts were kept.

Zangara's Own Story Of Roosevelt Attack

DE WOLF TELLS OF SHOOTING

Tensard De Wolf, former Morals Court magistrate here, was in the throng that witnessed the attempted assassination of President-elect Roosevelt in Miami, according to a letter received by friends in Pittsburgh. De Wolf, who is wintering in Miami with Mrs. De Wolf, write in part:

"We were at the meeting where they tried to shoot Roosevelt. We were at the back of the ampitheater and could not see Roosevelt, who was in a car below the platform. The crowd was standing on benches. At his final words, we beat it for the street to see his car go by.

"As I started, I heard the shooting, but, as he, thought it was fireworks or motorcycles. But when his car dashed past us with three or four men on each fender leaning over him, I knew something was wrong."

come. I didn't plan it only whenever my stomach hurt. I suffer in my head. I decided to make him suffer. I wanted to make it fifty-fifty.

Q.—Did you know Cermak?

A.—No, I know no one else. I only want President. I'm half-live, half-dead. I think capitalists killing me. I'm no good.

Q.—Don't you enjoy living?

A.—I don't care—live or dead.

The questioning here became a general conversation, defense and state attorneys aiming questions at the voluble little man. It ran like this:

Q.—Is there any insanity in your family?

A.—No. No insanity.

Zangara gestured and broke into rapid words.

"I'm no crazy, only my stomach, it's a burn. I feel like shoot myself. So I shoot President."

Q.—Do you drink?

ROOSEVELT TARGET

Q.—Did you know what you were doing when you shot at the President?

A.—Yes, I had it in my mind to kill President.

Q.—Did you go to school?

A.—My father no have no money. Capitalists, they have all money.

Q.—Did you know the President when you were at the park?

A.—Yes, I know. I see him. I shoot but the people grab my hand. The people they fool. I no can help it. I see President. I shoot but people in front. It's not my fault I hit them. I no can help it for them.

Q.—Don't people treat you fairly?

A.—No—no one treat me fairly.

Q.—Do you belong to any church?

A.—No. No church.

Q.—Do you regret the incident? Aren't you sorry?

FILM PLAYERS FACE LOWER SALARIES

Producers Open Drive Against Contracts Of 'Boom' Days

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—The drive against the big salaries of Hollywood movie stars is under way and, with many of the "boom" days contracts expiring in rapid-fire order, an unusual situation exists in the industry.

Greta Garbo, Maurice Chevalier, Marlene Dietrich, Gloria Swanson, Ronald Colman, the four Marx Brothers, Ann Harding, William Powell and George Arliss are among the film folk involved in the producers' program to bring salaries into line with the times. Contracts of these "big money" names range from $3,000 a week to $250,000 a picture.

What will come of the negotiations in new contracts is somewhat problematical, for some of the performers who have gained marked success on the stage are known to be casting glances toward offers in other centers.

PLANS STAGE WORK

Ann Harding may take a stage engagement in England. Chevalier intends to make one picture in California and one in France each autumn. His contract is said to call for four more pictures at the rate of two a year and guarantees against infringement upon his salary, reported to be $1,000 a day. Prior to the receivership actions in the motion picture industry, Chevalier was reported about to leave the Paramount studio.

Garbo's plans are unknown. Arliss may rusticate for a time in England or go back on the stage. Colman is considering a bachelor rest in the British countryside, but his contract specifies he must return within a year or give notice of his intention to do so, else it may be terminated. Gloria Swanson may make pictures independently or sign up with one of the large organizations.

SEVERAL REFUSE CUTS

Ruth Chatterton and Powell are still holdouts. They have steadfastly refused to take cuts that would leave Miss Chatterton with $7,500 a week and Powell with $8,000.

All the stars seem to be interested right now in an arrangement that would enable them to share in the profits of pictures, provided they are not charged up with excess overhead. They point out that in the past everything has been charged up to pictures, not excepting the time out for holidays granted the office boy and the executives' polo playing lessons.

LOUISIANA MOB HANGS SLAYER

RINGGOLD, La., Feb. 20.—(INS.)—Nelson Nash, 24-year-old Negro who was hanged from a tree and lynched by 50 men last night, had confessed to the murder of J. P. Batchelor, 51, cashier of the Ringgold Bank, officers announced today.

The body was riddled with bullets as it swung from a tree limb.

A posse of citizens captured Nash yesterday noon, eight hours after Batchelor was murdered by a Negro who attempted to attack the banker's wife. Although Mrs. Batchelor failed to identify Nash as the killer, police said the Negro confessed to the murder.

The Negro aroused Batchelor and his wife at their home and forced them to go to the Ringgold Bank where he ordered the cashier to open the vault. A time lock prevented the robbery, and the bandit marched the couple to a railroad embankment, where Batchelor was beaten to death when he frustrated the Negro's attempted attack on Mrs. Batchelor. She ran into a woods and escaped.

Roosevelt Pays Tribute To Miami Heroine

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(Universal.)—President-elect Roosevelt today had dispatched a grateful tribute to the woman whose heroism probably saved him from an assassin's bullet at Miami last Wednesday night.

He sent a personal letter of thanks to Mrs. W. F. Cross, a bystander, who seized the arm and spoiled the aim of the fanatic Zangara as he fired upon the President-elect.

Mr. Roosevelt also issued a public statement yesterday thanking the thousands of well-wishers who sent telegrams and messages congratulating him upon his narrow escape from death. The President-elect in his letter to Mrs. Cross said:

"It is hard for me to find words to convey to you my appreciation of your heroism and my gratitude for your prompt and courageous action in attempting to prevent the tragedy which occurred last Wednesday evening.

"It now appears that by divine providence the lives of all the victims of the assassin's disturbed aim will be spared.

"You should always have a just and conscious pride in the part you played and I rejoice in this fine example of forgetfulness of self and cool courage. Gratefully yours."

UTILITIES QUIZ FACES CLASH OVER CHIEF

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Feb. 20.—The Senate Utilities Investigating Committee may be confronted at a meeting late this afternoon with the choice of repudiating its newly elected chairman, Senator John J. McClure, of Delaware County, or disavowing the report it made to the Senate at the beginning of the present session, after several months of inquiry and consideration of the evidence adduced.

McClure was not a member of the committee when it was at work investigating. He was appointed to one of the vacancies caused by the resignations of Senators Rial, Earnest and Clippinger, whose terms as Senators expired.

FIRST REPORT

He played no part in the preparation of a group of bills which accompanied the report, and were the vehicles by which the committee expected the results of its inquiry to be made profitable and useful through revision of the public service company law. Those bills were drawn with the advice of Attorney O. K. Eaton, of Pittsburgh, counsel for the committee, and John Fertig, chief of the Legislative Reference Bureau.

Last week McClure, apparently without consulting any member of the committee or Eaton, presented a new set of utility bills, which he said were a substitute for those the committee had prepared after first-hand study, of which McClure did not have the benefit unless he mulled through the thousands of words of testimony.

The best evidence that McClure did not consult members of the committee, which he but recently joined, and of which only last Wednesday he was elected chairman after the committee had dallied in an unorganized state for weeks, is that he announced copies would be sent to the members over the week-end for comparison with the original committee bills.

McCLURE BILLS

That comparison has been made. There are extreme variances in the two groups of bills, and those favoring a real tightening of the utilities law contend that the McClure bills do not meet the problem as do the Salus bills, having in mind helpfulness to consumers as well as utilities.

Senators Krause, Baumer and Ealy, as well as McClure, were not members of the committee when its bills were prepared. But Senators Coyne, Pethick and Roberts were, and, presumably, approved the committee draft.

The committee, after meeting this afternoon to discuss the two sets of bills, tomorrow will call in Dr. Clyde L. King, chairman of the Public Service Commission.

SCHOOL CODE'S DELAY ASKED

A resolution requesting postponement of legislative action on the proposed new school code to allow time for benefits of the code to be evaluated by citizens of the school districts affected, was drafted yesterday by 12 Forest Hills organizations.

Fear that annexation of Wilkins Township to Forest Hills Borough, as provided in the code, would increase the borough school tax burden, was expressed by L. C. Paul, a director of the Forest Hills Civic Club and Bryn Mawr Men's Club. He said:

"The township school tax levy is 30 mills, while ours is 20 mills. Each area has about the same population. Our taxable valuation in the borough is three times that of the township. We need time to study this and it is likely other districts in the county are likewise affected."

Legislative action on the code is scheduled for tomorrow.

DANCER KILLED; FLIER HELD

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—After a pretty brunette hurtled to her death from a seventh story hotel room here, H. M. Edwards, who described himself as an aviator from Reno, Nev., was arrested on a murder charge.

Police said he was in the room when Miss Ivy Young, former stage dancer, plunged from a window Sunday.

Police said they were informed the couple had quarreled at a night club Saturday night, that the 32-year-old woman had sought admittance to the room about 4 a. m. yesterday, and that a violent struggle in which she screamed that she was being choked occurred just before she fell. Edwards was quoted by police as saying "she fell out."

Police said Miss Young recently was divorced at Reno from Herbert Grifinhagen, of New York. She met Edwards, 37, in Reno.

PUSH ECONOMY IN ASSEMBLY

HARRISBURG, Feb. 20.—While chairmen of both major parties of the Legislature were advocating economy in state government, Representative Hiram G. Andrews, Cambria, last night said he will ask the House to act on his resolution urging Legislators to cut their own pay $300 for this session.

His resolution also would direct the chief clerk of the House to write all public officials, asking them voluntarily to take pay cuts ranging from 10 per cent for those receiving between $2,000 and $5,000 to 20 per cent for officials getting $20,000 and more.

Asserting "drastic reductions" in state government expenses are imperative, Warren Van Dyke, Democratic state chairman, said Democratic legislators will work for at least a 25 per cent cut in the $290,000,000 state budget for 1933-35.

Unemployment relief also will be a part of the legislative program during the week. The House unemployment relief committee is to meet in executive session to consider information it is gathering in the formulation of a relief program.

Both House and Senate are to look into the milk industry if resolutions are adopted to provide for appointment of a joint legislative committee to conduct an investigation.

Service of Thanks Honors Roosevelt

Cantor S. Vigoda, of New York at services last night in B'nai Israel Synagogue, Negley avenue, chanted a prayer of thankfulness for the escape of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt from an assassin's bullets at Miami. The congregation repeated the prayer in Hebrew.

MARTIN URGES STATE PAY CUT

Opposed, as usual, to Gov Pinchot, Gen. Edward Martin, Republican State Chairman, today was on record in favor of salary reductions for state officials and employes.

In a speech last night before the Elks of Braddock he advocated "a horizontal cut of all appropriations to essential governmental functions, including salaries, so that the budget will balance."

Martin, who said that a well-organized group which included officeholders, is opposing the Republican organization's economy program, suggested suspending all construction work except that which is necessary.

It was learned today that Martin plans to confer next week with the Citizens' Committee, which has refused to sit with its foe, Senator James J. Coyne, to discuss legislation. Mrs. J. O. Miller, of the League of Women Voters, also opposed to Coyne policies, already has discussed the situation with Martin.

With Powder...

They Found an Easier, Quicker, Better Way to Whiten Teeth

Do As Your Dentist Does . . . Use POWDER

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dull Teeth Become White

Dentists everywhere recommend Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used.

It cleans off all stains and tartar, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter.

No Grit—No Pumice

Free from all grit or pumice, Dr. Lyon's cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel, as years of constant use have shown.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums, freedom from pyorrhea and the least possible tooth decay.

Lasts Longer—Costs Less

Once you use Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, you will never be satisfied to use anything else. It leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Dr. Lyon's is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

STRIFE IN CUBA MAY FORCE U. S. ACTION

(Editor's note—Following is the first of a series based upon a first-hand survey of present conditions in Cuba. To escape possible censorship, the articles have been written and sent from Miami.)

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.
(Copyright, 1933, International News Service, Inc.)

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 20.—Trouble is brewing in Cuba—serious trouble that inevitably, it is believed, will compel some form of American intervention, peaceable or otherwise.

It may break out at any time, but probably not before the incoming administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt has had an opportunity to reveal whether it takes American responsibilities under the Platt amendment any more seriously than has the Coolidge and Hoover administrations.

INTERVENTION RIGHT

This amendment, adopted and made a part of the Cuban constitution in 1901, gives the United States the right to intervene in Cuban affairs at any time "for the preservation of Cuban independence and to maintain a government capable of protecting life, property and individual liberty . . ."

There is no doubt whatever that the government of President Machado is not preserving Cuban life, property or individual liberty, particularly the latter.

On the contrary, constitutional guarantees have been suspended, strict censorship of the press imposed, the national university and high schools closed, the right of free assemblage and free speech forbidden—and the accompaniment of all this has been warfare, terroristic by nature, between the Machado government and the opposition, in which scores on both sides have been assassinated by bombing and shooting.

How long this under-cover warfare of terrorism and bombing and assassination will continue is problematical. Opposition leaders assert it will continue until President Machado is driven from office, or until the United States intervenes.

MACHADO GUARDED

President Machado rarely occupies the presidential palace these days. He spends most of his time at his country estate, some 70 miles from the capital, closely guarded by soldiers.

When he does come into Havana it is in a speedy automobile of armored plate and bullet-proof glass, preceded and followed by similar cars filled with troops. The presidential machine is said to have been specially built in the United States at a cost of $30,000, and is somewhat comparable to those machines utilized by the kings of American gangland.

Several attempts have been made on Machado's life in recent months. All have failed.

None of this, of course, is permitted to be published in the Cuban press. Both the Spanish and English language newspapers in Havana are under the strictest censorship.

DO HEADACHES DRIVE YOU CRAZY?

It's the worst kind of folly to dope and drug yourself every time you have one of those blinding, throbbing headaches. For drugs only relieve the pain for the moment, and in a little while the headache returns worse than ever and you have to drug yourself all over again. You've got to get at the cause.

Poisons created in your own body cause these severe headaches, and you must remove the poisons to get relief of a lasting nature.

By starting the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment, today, you may free yourself from this constant torment.

This new form of Nujol is specially designed to rid you of poisons which very often cause this condition.

Cream of Nujol contains no drugs, and does not in any way interfere with work or play. It is delicious to take. Moreover, you can use this modern treatment at a cost of but a few cents a day.

Take Cream of Nujol night and morning. Begin this very night and give it a real trial. Buy it at any drug counter.

NAVY BILL CUT, REPORTED OUT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(INS.)—With a declaration against crippling the Navy in the interest of economy, the House Appropriations Committee today reported the annual naval supply bill, carrying $308,669,562 to run the Navy next year.

This amount, the committee reported, represents a reduction of $18,914,029 under last year.

The report was modified at the last minute by the committee to eliminate a proposed saving of over $13,000,000 by a 30 per cent cut in the wages of Navy Yard employes.

WED AT SCHOOL; NOW IN COURT

Does a college student have to provide a home for his wife.

That is the question raised today when Mrs. Louise G. Ashe, 24, of 5568 Forbes street, testified in her divorce proceedings against Edmund M. Ashe, 1241 Murdock street.

She was a 19-year-old sophomore when she and Edmund, also a Tech student, drove to Elkton, Md., April 3, 1928, Mrs. Ashe testified. But her husband refused to let her announce their marriage and never made a home for her, she continued. She lived in her dormitory and her husband remained with his parents.

To determine whether a student-husband is required to support his wife, Judge Egan ordered attorneys in the case to prepare briefs.

GROUP TO ACT ON SCRIP PLAN

The plan to issue scrip to the merchants of Chartiers Valley will receive definite action tonight at a meeting of the Exchange Association of Pennsylvania in the West End Board of Trade, Wabash avenue and Steuben street, according to George L. Kinter, author of the plan. He said:

"Indications are that many of the businessmen in the valley have decided upon action and will enter an agreement tonight. In addition, representatives of the various boards of trade in the valley will be present to lend their support to the plan."

The meeting will be open only to businessmen and merchants.

Finer Jacket Frocks

The Versatile Kind, That Give TWO Costumes for The Price of ONE

$18.85 $28.85

So keen are we on this economy idea of helping women double the use of their dresses, that in these finer Anniversary groups we feature costumes in which the dress beneath the jacket is a complete, separate unit, adapted to many purposes.

Misses' Costumes at $18.85 include those with bridge and "date" frocks having tops and short sleeves of sheer, flattering fabric or checked matelasse taffeta; sheer wool models, with fur-cuffed jackets and light silk top frocks; and street models, with printed silk frocks and long, sheer wool capes.

Women's Costumes at $18.85 and $28.85, of fine sheers, rich silk crepes and Cheney's ultra-smart Bogodura, combined with unusual prints, all have long-sleeve frocks. So they will serve separately for spring and summer street, travel, luncheon and club wear—dresses that can be worn from morning till night.

TELL IT TO ELSIE -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

Weak Desire for Worthless Man Brings Unhappiness

Does cowardice ever pay?

Can you ever buy happiness by lying?

N. I. P. is wondering; for, like many another girl, she lied to save the love of a jealous, tyrannical man. And what's the result? Read for yourself—

Dear Miss Robinson—

I have come to you with my trouble at last. I have been planning to for a long time, but I never could get the courage before.

I go with a young man whom I intend to marry. I will call him Bill. We have been practically man and wife ever since we knew we loved each other. We love each other dearly, but we have had a great deal of trouble.

TOLD LIES

In the first place, I love him so much that it actually made me afraid of him, and afraid of losing him. I, like the perfect fool I am, lied about everything I ever did, although I didn't do anything that was too bad to tell him. But he is rather odd about things—jealous.

Things got worse as they went on, and I got in deeper. He changed from a lovable boy to something little short of a tyrant. The worse he got, the more afraid I was—and I did something that I will regret to my dying day. I swore that I was telling the truth, when I wasn't. I swore by everything that is holy—and all the time I was lying.

And, oh, please don't think I was bad, because I'm not. I don't make any excuses for myself, other than that I was afraid of him and of losing him. A cowardly and rotten thing, of course, but it is the truth.

DOESN'T BELIEVE HER

I have never cheated on him in any way, and you may think that is because I was afraid of him. No. It wasn't that. It was because I love him too much to do anything like that. I have been true to him in every way, except for the lying.

Now, after a long time, I have overcome my cowardice and yellowness—but he absolutely refuses to believe a thing I say. It just drives me crazy. I am up against a stone wall, no matter how truthful I am to him. He has grown away from me. His love has cooled.

When I tell him the truth he says, "It is just more lies." He is getting to hate me. I am losing him. The very thing I fought to prevent I have brought smack up to my door.

What can I do? Will you and your readers help me to keep the boy I love? I am desperate.

N. I. P.

Poor youngster: you've certainly gotten yourself into a jam! And you'll be wishing even worse trouble on yourself if you insist on trying to hold a man who has no tolerance for truth, and who uses fear as a lash. For it isn't just fibbing that has brought trouble to you, N. I. P., but your weak desire for a worthless man.

You've cheated him—some—but you've cheated yourself much more, by indulging your infatuation for him.

SELF-INDULGENCE

"Love" like that isn't beautiful, or even forgivable. It isn't even love. It's a vicious form of self-indulgence. Your craving for this man isn't a particle better or cleaner than a drunkard's craving for booze, or an addict's craving for "hop." And you've no more right to indulge in any other degrading practice.

Even if you never lied to him again—even if he would let you serve and adore him for the rest of his life—you'd have no right to do so, and you'd be horribly wrong if you persisted in doing so.

Fortunately, he isn't going to allow you to wreck your life, for he is weary of you, and the sooner you face that bitter fact the better for you. His big act on "dishonesty" isn't sincere, youngster. It's just a stall. He really doesn't care whether you lie or not. He only wants an excuse to leave you.

So don't be fooled any longer. See him for the mean bully he is—and then put this whole, wretched episode behind you, and be true to yourself, by leaving him.

Yes, I know it will hurt at first. But if you have the courage to go through with it, you'll find your way back to the pride and peace and happiness which are your right, little girl; but which you'll never know if you follow this sorry trail.

Enjoy Each Age of Life to Really Live, Advises Fay King

By FAY KING

I have always thought that those who really LIVE are those who enjoy each age of life as it should be.

As babies—welcomed and given tender care.

And then—when one's lifelong mate and friends of the years have gone, gently to take leave and join them. Or perhaps be the first to slip away and wait for them.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Ear Complaints Very Often Due to Neglect

I had occasion the other day to ride in a crowded train. I looked over my fellow passengers. Many had colds and were coughing and sneezing. I was pleased to note that most of the sufferers made efforts to cover the mouth and nose and not to poison the air with their secretions.

Dr. Copeland

One of my fellow passengers blew his nose loudly, strongly and frequently. This man, like many other individuals, seemed to believe that to do a good job in blowing the nose it was necessary to make as much noise as possible.

Excessive and violent blowing is sufficient to force the infected material and germs into the middle ear, or one of the nasal sinuses.

When you blow your nose do so gently and slowly. It is best to blow one nostril at a time.

I cannot say too much about this simple procedure. To neglect it is to cause uncomfortable and serious ailments of the ear.

Another common practice that leads to infection is "picking" the ear. Some women resort to hairpins and men seem to prefer toothpicks or other pointed objects. Not only is this an unpleasant sight, but it is a dangerous practice. It may lead to a serious disease of the ear.

Itching of the ear is a frequent and annoying complaint. It may be due to water in the ear, left there after swimming or bathing. It may come from eczema of the ear canal or be caused by an excessive amount of wax in the ear, particularly if the wax becomes hardened.

Under no circumstances pick the ear with a toothpick, hairpin or other sharp object. You may damage the ear drum or, by breaking the skin, cause an infection. Many cases of partial deafness have been traced to unhygienic care of the ear.

Do not neglect wax in the ear. It serves as an excellent place for breeding germs. If permitted to remain for a long time, it becomes hard and impacted. When this occurs, it seriously interferes with normal hearing. Impacted wax can only be removed in safety by having it done by a physician. He will first soften it with some liquid application.

You will be astonished at the improvement following the treatment. There will be better hearing and relief from the pressure on the ear drum when the wax is removed.

I can think of nothing more timely than to warn you of the need of proper hygiene of the ears, nose and throat. At this time of the year infections of these vital parts of the body are all too common. Many of them can be prevented by proper care.

Heart of a Wife -:- -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Hugh Learns That Lee Chow Has Disappeared

I did not obey Hugh Grantland's injunction to tell him "quickly" what peculiar thing I had noticed about the message I had found hidden under the candle in the "little horse" candlestick. I needed time, I felt, to clarify the impression I had of the note, and I put out my hand for it.

"Please let me see it again," I said. "I was so—upset—at the threat it contained, that I am not sure just what was contained in the rest of it."

"Of course." He put the note in my hand, and I scanned it carefully again with the aid of the reading glass.

"Do you think they would really carry out that threat," I asked when I had finished, "or is it put in merely for effect?"

"Kidnapers are not usually scrupulous persons," Hugh returned with a grim little smile, "and those Chinese bandits with whom we dealt at the farm were capable of anything. But I agree with you that something about the wording of this makes me share your evident opinion that it has been put in with the idea of horrifying us into acceding to their demands. Anything else?"

"The Chinese who wrote this mixes his Oriental phraseology astonishingly with American slang," I said.

"I thought you'd get that." Hugh's voice held pleased approbation, and I felt a thrill of justifiable pride. Praise from Hugh about one's mental processes is indeed "praise from Sir Hubert."

"'Wash that up' is hardly an Oriental idiom," I said, "and there were others. But it was the signature that intrigued me most."

"It is peculiar," Hugh agreed. "I suppose you know that one of the pet aversions of a Chinese is being called a 'Chinaman'?"

"That phrase was the title of a short story—I think, by Steele—published several years ago," I commented.

"Yes, I know," he answered. "That furnishes another interesting angle. But," shrugging his shoulders, "there is no use conjecturing. Lee Chow is the only person who can solve this problem.

"I have not heard from him yet today, but that is not surprising, for he never wastes words or telephone calls when he has nothing of real importance to divulge. I wonder if it would be possible to call him from here?" He looked at the Mertons inquiringly.

"Of course," they said together. "It's right in the kitchen — rather inconvenient for you."

"On the contrary, much better than if it were in here," he said, with the smile that makes friends for Hugh Grantland wherever he goes. "I do not crave publicity, and strangers are likely to drop in here at any time. Can a telephone conversation be heard in here?"

"Not if the radio is going," Mrs. Merton said.

"And we'll see to it that it is going while you're telephoning," Mr. Merton said emphatically.

Hugh considered a moment.

"Have you a private room here, where I could bring two or three men for a conference?" he asked.

"There's a room upstairs—a bed-sitting room that we sometimes rent to tourists," Mr. Merton said. "It's certainly secluded enough. Nobody would ever dream you were here."

"Then," Hugh decided, "I'll telephone the Chief and Harry before I put in the call for Lee Chow. This note, of course, must get into Harry's hands at once, for he is the one of us most concerned. I think you agree with me that it is highly inadvisable for Lillian to know of this note just yet."

"Oh, never!" I said, with a shudder at the thought of Lillian reading that hideous threat concerning her idolized young daughter.

"Let us hope she never will have to see it," he said gravely. Then he followed Mr. Merton into the kitchen, made the local calls he wished, and then called Lee Chow on long distance.

"You might as well know," he said flatly, when he returned, "Lee Chow has disappeared. No one has seen him since last night."

Household Hints

Color fastness of material may be tested by pinning a sample of colored material to a piece of white material and boil for 15 minutes in a solutions of 1½ teaspoons of soap shavings, ⅓ teaspoon washing soda and 1 cup of water. Rinse well, dry and press with warm iron. If color does not run, material is color fast.

To improve the color and flavor of oatmeal flakes when adding them to cookie mixtures, sprinkle the flakes on shallow pan and heat in a moderate oven until they have browned a little.

Two teaspoons of grated yellow cheese added to salad dressing used for fruit salads gives added flavor.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Contrary to Convention

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am writing to you for your decision. We are five married couples and we get together about once a month at someone's house for a good time. But when it comes to dancing, some of the men have to be asked. I want to know if it is correct for the ladies to ask them to dance? A says it isn't, but I think it is all right, because we know each other very well. A.

What lazy husbands . . . I'm afraid they are feeling the depression! Now that Leap Year is over, perhaps they will mend their ways, and do their social duty by asking the ladies to dance, and not have to be urged in this contrary-to-convention manner. I agree with A.

A Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband is a patient in a state hospital. He is very quiet and bashful and one of the attendants takes special care of him in the dining room. I would like to show my appreciation by some little gift. Will you be so kind as to suggest something?

A CONSTANT READER

If the attendant is a woman, I suggest a purse for her; and if the attendant is a man, perhaps you would be interested in giving him a wallet. Or for either, handkerchiefs would be a perfect gift too, either plain or monogrammed. A writing portfolio is an appropriate gift too, most useful. Or books, or a subscription to a magazine

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

'Signing Off' at a Slam

That bugaboo of high contracts, duplication of values, is immediately apparent to a good Contract player when his partner opens with a bid of a suit of which he is void and his hand is of such a make-up that it can be played only at one suit, and that suit so long that the possibility of finding adequate trump support in his partner's hand is practically excluded.

Mr R. J. Sommerville, of Detroit, Mich., playing in a Rubber game with Mr. Fred Foster says, judging from the score-sheet, were slightly the better of the two pairs, found a way, while having a lay-down five-odd in his hand, by a series of minimum responses, to play the hand in the right suit and at the makable contract. The distribution of this hand was certainly about as extraordinary as one could hope to find in a game of Bridge.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass (1)	2 ♣ (2)	2 ♠
3 ♠ (3)	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
4 ◇	Double (4)	5 ♣	Pass
5 ◇ (5)	Double	6 ♣ (6)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—Of course, East knows that a Penalty Double is a futile procedure. With six cards of the suit bid by his vulnerable opponent, there is little prospect of that suit being finally played as trump.

2—A rather difficult decision. Of course, South can bid five clubs, which apparently can be made laid down, but he has his partner to consider, and there are but few cards that his partner could hold that would be of any value. The only ones that could strengthen the hands would be the Ace and King of Clubs or either of them. He therefore begins a process of minimum responses, feeling quite confident that his partner will continue the bidding.

3—North is equally anxious to reach game and perhaps Slam in either hearts or diamonds. He thus makes the Forcing bid to keep the bidding open until the distribution can be disclosed.

4—A rather unwise Double. It may have had quite a large bearing on North eventually permitting the hand to be played in clubs.

5—North again attempts to force his partner to a choice between hearts and diamonds.

6—South feels quite certain that he can be defeated but 1 trick. There is a bare possibility that, even with the Ace and King of clubs against him, he can make the contract, provided, of course, there is one club in each of the other three hands.

The Opening lead is the spade Knave, which is ruffed in the Dummy with the singleton trump King. From this point on, of course, there is nothing to the play of the hand, as the closed hand is re-entered, the adverse trumps dropped, and the hand laid down for the Slam.

TODAY'S QUESTION

North—Dealer.

PERTUSSIN CERTAINLY WORKS QUICKLY!

When you "catch cold," the natural moisture in your throat dries up. Tickling, irritation, coughing set in. Avoid "remedies" containing drugs which merely deaden the nerves, don't correct the cause.

PERTUSSIN opens the throat glands, stimulates the flow of natural throat moisture. That's why doctors prescribe it. Let "moist throat" end your cough! Ask your druggist for PERTUSSIN.

TRAFFIC DEATHS AT NEW LOW

Traffic deaths in Pittsburgh in January were the lowest recorded in 10 years of Bureau of Traffic Planning accident records. Six fatalities were recorded, compared with eight in January, 1931, and 10 in January, 1932, previous low years.

All types of traffic accidents dropped 40 per cent under the corresponding totals for January last year, according to the preliminary accident report made public today by City Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre.

The six traffic deaths compare with 11 in January, 1932; the number of accidents reported dropped from 292 to 170 in the comparative months; pedestrian accidents decreased from 108 to 64; personal injury accidents from 198 to 116 and property damage accidents from 83 to 48.

A Columnist Jots Down a Few Notes to His Sec'y

Dear Girl Friday:

The weather here at Miami Beach is lovely, the sun has been glittering since Tuesday. I've successfully dodged Skolsky (up to now, that is) and you'll never guess who's here!... Magistrate Hirshfield!!! . . . At least, I was so informed by the conductor on the way down . . . It seems that Hirshfield began by saying: "Do you know who I am? I'm Judge Hirshfield, Al Smith's friend!" . . . "Oh, no you're not," said the well-informed trainman, "you're the judge who got a ticket from Officer Conroy!" . . . It pained me to read that Ernie Schaaf died. Save the columns of the sports writing experts for me on his passing—I want to smell the flowers they give a guy when he's no longer able to enjoy them—What a mess of red faces theirs must have been after they were so certain that Ernie was faking his fight with Primo . . . Whew—it's hot—have my shirt collar open and sleeves rolled up and I'm gasping for a breeze.

Steve Grenda, Columbia's football captain, just flunked a required course in English elementary composition . . . If Steve does not pass the course during the coming term, he will fail to receive his degree . . . He's been trying to complete it since his Frosh year—that is—for 3½ years! . . .

. . . Here's a refreshing item—considering how many bosses have been laying off staffs or cutting their wages: The Chemical Bank paid everything for a clerk while he was confined at Saranac. Then when they couldn't continue the payments, they hired his father at a nice salary . . . I hope you are cleaning up all unanswered business . . . Did you find out about that missing check? . . . Gee, but it's hot!

A new tenor from California will be in the money soon. He is Joe Morrison of Hollywood. Catch him via WOR. . . You hear the most interesting things on trains. Frinstance—that Chicken a la King wasn't named after a king at all—but for a hotel man. . . Which hotel man I don't know, though . . . I hear, too, that the ad agencies are going crazy trying to find out which of the ciggie firms is plotting to break out with a new package. . . Which will be wrapped only in cellophane—so that you see the ciggies right through the cover.

The agency that gets the account will make plenty because it will take lots of exploitation. . . . I ran into George Jessel and asked him: "How's Eddie Cantor?" . . . He replied: "He's swell—if you like Eddie Cantor."

Here's a form of revenge. An insurance company chief contributed a million smackers to the dry cause five years ago. . . Now he is stuck with two million dollars worth of hotel bonds on one of the swankiest local hostelries—which cannot possibly make a penny until the hotel can sell hooch. . . Jean Malin has gone platinum-headed! . . . Just read this amusing observation in the Digest: A man recently crossed Broadway in New York, by walking a rope stretched from the top of one building to another—the coward!

You know how it is at dinner parties—trying not to pair wives with their husbands because they stick forks into each other instead of using knives . . . Well, I ran into a party at which this problem was cleverly handled. During cocktails each husband is asked to write on a slip of paper the outstanding characteristics of his wife—good and bad . . . The wives do the same. . . . The host and hostess then act as a committee of two and peruse the slips . . . Then they pair off the men and women whose characteristics are similar . . . You'd be surprised how, in most cases, this psychological formula does away with centrifugal bickering . . . Jimmy Mahoney just told me why Hollywood is such an unusual place. . . . The moon is in the sky and many of the stars are in the gutter.

Miriam Hopkins is going for men of the social strata . . . Her friends think Miriam wants to make the Social Register, which usually omits actresses . . . The lady who is the gayest and has the most fun at Tony's, I hear, is the silver-haired Mrs. Tone, mater of Franchot Tone, of screen and stage . . . The air mail service to Miami Beach from New York isn't so good . . . Letters with 3-cent postage get there just as quickly as those with 8 cents on them . . . They've named a racehorse after Walda. It will run soon . . . Don't make any bets, tho—heavy ones, I mean, until I find out if she has at least half the pep and energy of her namesake.—W. W.

Among those expected are Joe E. Brown, Ginger Rogers, Bebe Daniels, Dick Powell and others. In the inaugural parade they will have a float symbolizing their message "Better Times" and the "42nd Street" Warner film.

MUSIC

Pittsburgh Symphony Society
And George Enesco
SYRIA MOSQUE

PROGRAM:
Symphony No. 5, E Minor . . Tschaikowsky
Concerto in D Major for violin and orchestra . . . . . Beethoven
Rumanian Rhapsody No. 1 . . . . . Enesco

The Pittsburgh Symphony Society played its third concert of the season last night in Syria Mosque, giving us the most dignified program we have had since the founding of the orchestra. A grand symphony, a monumental instrumental concerto, and then an important contemporary composer leading one of his charming works—that is really an ideal condition.

Mr. Lissfelt

Antonio Modarelli held the baton for the Tschaikowsky Symphony, an ambitious work for our orchestra. Our players managed this masterpiece with many a high spot of excellence. Preferable would have been a slight hastening of of the introduction to the first movement and a corresponding repose in the sombre finale of the same part; also a deeper resonance in cello and bass for the many sweeping melodies in the violin choir. The improved tone in brass is now becoming one of the noticeable features of our orchestra.

During the violin concerto and later in the Rhapsody the response to soloist and the conductor was overwhelming. What a tribute it was to George Enesco who gave us that mighty violin concerto of Beethoven and then his own Roumanian tunes!

As violinist Enesco stands like a bulwark of music. Not since Joachim and Ysaye and Kreisler has there been such repose in any performance which comes from absolute acquaintance with music values and the deepest reverence for fundamental art principles. Tone—if taken for its own sake—there was in luxuriant abundance, and what beauty of tone! The most adroitly planned climaxes, the most entrancingly graceful phrases, stark grandeur in cadenzas came as matter of course. To hear Enesco finish a trill is worth another's entire performance. And then the soul of a poet behind it all!

To feel the audience lend its approval to such music in unmistakable fashion must have been gratifying to the player who had to respond with a dance of Bach. His success as conductor was no less than as player. With minimum gesture he concentrates his force and draws incredible effects from this organization. His Rhapsody is made of folk material and its simple appeal is covered with the most colorful instrumentation and entrancing contrasts.

We shall remember with what spirit he hypnotized these men, but most of all the drama with which he imbued that first cadenza of the Beethoven concerto. That shall remain a tradition.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Jannings Gets Summons to Hollywood

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20.—Herr Emil Jannings, in Berlin, received a cablegram which must have given him uncommon pleasure. It was an urgent summons to return to Hollywood, which once hailed him the greatest of them all, but which soon forgot him in the cacophony of the early talkies.

Now, Charles R. Rogers wants the German star to come back to play the lead in "Hock Shop," a story about a foreign pawnbroker who becomes a power in a big Fifth avenue jewelry store. In this part, Herr Jannings' accent, or what remains of it after his recent studies in English, will not be out of place.

Mr. Jannings

As the portly actor also has an offer to do a New York play, Rogers hopes he can be persuaded to make the journey to this country.

"Hock Shop" will be the producer's eighth and last picture under his present agreement with Paramount. Like all the other Rogers pictures but "70,000 Witnesses," it is a screen original, the authors being two fan magazine writers, Charles Belden and William Ullman, Jr. Elliott Nugent will direct.

If Jannings does the picture, it will be his first English talkie. In December, 1926, he arrived here to work for Paramount and left in the early summer of 1929. His last silent film was "Sins of the Father," in which Ruth Chatterton also appeared.

* * *

Since the Halperin brothers have been making the picture, "Supernatural," they have been swamped by communications from self-styled mediums. Latest was a scrawled manuscript of a scenario, which the writer insisted had been written under spirit control.

Edward Halperin had the manuscript returned with this notation: "Suggest you also get this produced and distributed under control; it will make it easier for everyone concerned."

Ann Harding's option comes up in April. As she makes one of the huge salaries, you can look for an argument over her future status at RKO. . . The Boots Mallory divorce, they'll tell you, has already been filed in Mexico. Meanwhile Boots is at home sick with the influenza. . . Ruth Selwyn is another on the sick list. She's at the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital . . . and an insistent feminine fan had to be persuaded out of Ricardo Cortez's sick-room. She managed to evade nurses and get in to see Ric. Several friends happened to be visiting him at the time and shooed her away.

You may be seeing Joan Crawford's new picture as a special. After looking at it, M-G-M officials told Howard Hawks to shoot a lot of war stuff and give them 11 reels. He'll do this with the aid of Army flyers at March Field. "Today We Live" is slated for an opening in the Astor Theater, New York.

PHYLLIS BARRY WILL BE SEEN IN "HOLLYWOOD PREMIERE," MUSICAL FILM

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Another of the big photoplays of the year, "Rasputin and the Empress," is in the Nixon for a stay of one week only. The principal roles are played by Ethel Barrymore, as the late Empress of Russia; Lionel Barrymore, as Rasputin, rascally churchman who gains dominance in the affairs of the Czar's family and Russian state, and John Barrymore, as a prince and enemy of Rasputin. It is the first appearance on the screen of the Barrymores together. Other prominent parts are played by Ralph Morgan, as the Czar; Diana Wynyard, as a princess; Tad Alexander, as the young invalid son of the Czar and Czarina; C. Henry Gordon, Edward Arnold and Gustav von Seyffertitz. The story opens with festal gayety that is shortly interrupted by news of an assassination—that of the Grand Duke Sergei. It then develops rapidly into a panorama of Russian historical events through a period covering part of the World War, terminating in the murder of Rasputin.

* * *

Nevt week the Nixon will return to stage plays, with the presentation of the premiere performances of "Both Your Houses," by Maxwell Anderson. It is a Theater Guild production that will be given as the fourth subscription play of the American Theater Society. It is a comedy about politics, with special reference to the Congress. In the leading role will be Walter C. Kelly, long known for his art in varied characterization and as a keen wit and story teller. Seats will be on sale in the box office for this production Thursday.

* * *

Another early attraction in the Nixon will be Paul Muni in "Councellor-at-Law," written and produced by Elmer Rice, author of "Street Scene," and "We, The People," now current in the Empire Theater, New York. Muni is known only by reputation to local stage audiences, but is quite familiar to patrons of the screen, remembered especially for "Scarface" and "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang." The New York company is promised by Mr. Rice for the engagement of "Counsellor-at-Law" here.

* * *

One of the striking performances in "Before Morning," mystery melodrama that has just opened in New York, is given by an ex-reporter. Louis Jean Heydt is the actor, and the news of the matter is that he crashed the stage originally as a reporter. He wanted to be near his sweetie, Leona Maricle, then a member of the cast of "The Trial of Mary Dugan," now Mrs. Heydt, and persuaded the manager to let him be one of the newspaper men in the play.

Veterans to Attend 'The Big Drive'

In connection with the showing of "The Big Drive," World War picture which opens Wednesday in the Fulton, several American Legion posts, Veterans of Foreign Wars posts and other military organizations will attend in a body. Wednesday night Trees-Carlisle Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will attend. Friday night, the Chateau Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will see the film. Thursday night, the R. O. T. C. of the University of Pittsburgh, Lieut.-Col. E. J. Cullen commanding, will parade to the theater headed by a band. These special nights will be continued. The film was made from the official records of eight nations, including the United States.

Comedy

Walter C. Kelly, "The Virginia Judge" of old, will play the leading role in the new Theater Guild comedy, "Both Your Houses," which will have its premiere in Nixon February 27.

Here's a cipher that should baffle you for some time. A tip will be given tomorrow. Watch for it.

By KENNETH A. NAGEL,
Cipher Editor.

A reader submits Cipher No. 60. He is A. B. West, of 1703 Oliver Building. What a cipher! Don't get alarmed, for the Cipher Editor doesn't want to discourage you. Now go to it.

If you are stuck, don't forget to look at tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph. The tip may aid you—well, let's hope so.

Did you solve Cipher No. 59? It was rather hard, wasn't it? Well, the full explanation is published today. Here's how it was done.

The first letter of every word is in the Morse code. Beginning then with the second letter, which is unchanged, code and alphabet alternate. The answer, then, is—

"End the depression, everybody buy American."

A new cipher fan, Miss Edith Johnson, of Canonsburg, writes:

"The ciphers appearing in the Sun-Telegraph are fascinating. Let's hope they may continue for some time. They are the first thing I look for when the paper arrives. Me for better and harder ciphers."

PLAYGIRLS IN LOVE

By MAY CHRISTIE

"You like your work?"

"Yes. It's the biggest thing that's happened to me, coming to New York. I was crazy to be on my own."

"Your people aren't here, then?"

"No. My home's upstate. I took a business course there, and this is my first position."

"I see." He was quietly studying her face. Despite its childish look he read a strength and purpose in it. She had courage. He found himself comparing her to the orchidaceous damsel who had boldly come into his office this afternoon to beg him to attend her party. The latter had boundless confidence in herself, he admitted, but it was quite a different thing from little Miss Brian's quiet courage. The spoiled child of luxury who had been calling him up at inconvenient hours and who made no secret of her predilection for him knew nothing but the glamorous side of life. Her existence was a round of pleasure—parties—theaters—attention. He'd bet that little Miss Brian of the steady lips and lovely eyes had never even been inside a night club.

BARRY INQUISITIVE

He felt curious about her life. He had no sisters of his own. He asked her where she lived, and she told him she had a room in a boarding house in Brooklyn.

"No, I don't feel lonely. I've made a few friends. Most of my excitement's during the day, you see, with my work. I don't mind having quiet evenings."

"Isn't that rather unusual? I should think lots of people would want—." Afraid of offending her, he broke off.

"Oh, I do go out of course," Judith said quickly. "To movies, and concerts on Sundays, and my friend and I sometimes go up to the Metropolitan Art Museum. There's such wonderful things all the time in New York."

But anyone as pretty at this girl was bound to have at least one man in love with her.

Before he could stop himself he asked: "Are you engaged?"

JUDITH EMBARRASSED

Judith flushed deeply. "Oh no! No! Whatever made you ask such a thing? I haven't time for anything but work!"

"But don't you ever go out dancing in the evenings? You know I never met a girl before who wasn't out for a good time most of the time—I mean, isn't it rather unusual——"

She was embarrassed. She thought: "He thinks me a prude ... a kind of born old maid!" She must correct that though immediately. She stammered: "Why, of course I love to dance when anybody asks me, but I don't know many people—" and then could have bitten her tongue out for her indiscretion, and for the unintentional hint.

She got up from her chair abruptly. "If you're sure there isn't anything more for me to do, I'll go." Then, at his question: "Oh, I'm all right now. I don't want a taxi. The subway's near—" and before he could speak she had gone.

Judith was more than half an hour late for supper when she fitted her latchkey into the door of her boarding house.

SUFFERS REACTION

In order to save time, she hung up her coat and hat and left her overshoes in a cupboard and went directly into the dining room.

Her landlady, Mrs. Timmins, sat at the head of the long table that tonight had only one place vacant—Judith's. Mrs. Timmins gave her a sharp, annoyed look and said:

"The food's cold. What else can you expect?"

Her friend Zella leaned over towards her. "I was late myself, ole dear, or I'd have insisted it be kept warm for you."

Miss Prosser, a spinster of uncertain years with prominent teeth, and straw-colored hair that nature certainly had never endowed her with, essayed a joke about "office wives" who worked late but usually were rewarded by a bite of food with the boss.

Judith felt very tired. All the way home in the subway she had been keyed up. Now, after her long stretch of work and the excitement of her talk with Barry Deane after that odd "turn" she had had, which was due, she told herself (although she knew it wasn't entirely so) to the fact that she had omitted her lunch today, she was suffering from a sort of reaction.

For the first time, it struck her that most of the faces around Mrs. Timmins' dining table were drab, uninteresting.

SCOTCHMAN PUZZLED

It had seemed quite gay and adventurous here, to begin with. A female Columbus in uncharted waters—that's the way she had felt when she had first come to the boarding house.

She had wanted everyone to like her, to be on friendly terms with everyone. "Quite a little Pollyanna aren't you? But it doesn't always work, my child," Zella had informed her. "Watch out for the tabbies."

"You look real worn out, lassie," boomed Mr. Murdock, whose seat was directly opposite Judith's and next to Miss Prosser. He was Scotch, and a widower in the forties, with a kind heart and a burr that you could cut with a knife. He had a blunt way with him that was a little embarrassing at times, but Judith thought him a pleasant enough man.

"I am rather tired. I'd a long day." She had dispensed with the cold soup that had a thick layer of grease on top, and was now toying with the luke-warm and congealed mixture that had been Irish stew.

"Why a lassie like you wants to work when there are men in the world who would surely be willing to work for you is a fair mystery to me," Mr. Murdock announced, rolling his r's.

"But I thought there were two million extra females in your British Isles?" Zella put in, mischief in her eye, "and no matter how they try—which you imply they do—the poor dears can't all grab off a man."

ZELLA DEFENDS GIRLS

Mr. Murdock, rather nettled, started to explain that the numbers of the so-called surplus ladies had been tremendously reduced in the past year or two, when he was interrupted by Miss Prosser who—ever since his advent at the boarding house—had waylaid him at every turn and intended to go right on with the good work of catering to the poor, dear, lonely man until—maybe—maybe——?

With her blonde hair and "girlish" figure, Miss Prosser told herself, she didn't look anything like the middle forties and no impudent girls would bait Mr. Murdock while she was about!

"I thoroughly agree with you, Mr. Murdock," declared Miss Prosser, "that it's a great pity women have to go out and work. I never did. I never shall. Of course, I never had to." This was a hint at her comfortable little income.

"But things have changed since your day, Miss Prosser—you've got to admit they have," Zella observed, planting her elbows firmly on the table. "Women want to work—they no longer want to be merely parasites in a man's world."

Miss Prosser tossed her head. "You mean they've flung prudence to the winds, and all they want is freedom for a good time and spend their own and anyone else's money they can lay their hands on."

"I don't mean anything of the sort, but even so, why shouldn't they?" Zella challenged her. "Why should men get away with everything? Why shouldn't we enjoy ourselves as well as men? And if we don't see men through rosy clouds any more, and break our hearts over them as girls did in the Victorian era, doesn't that show we're a darn sight wiser?"

Synopsis

Judith Brian, young and pretty secretary in the Knickerbocker Bank, is attracted to Barry Deane, young executive. She is thrilled with the prospect of merely seeing him when summoned to his office. That night, she works late. Exhausted after a strenuous day, she almost faints in Barry's office. He insists that she rest awhile. For the first time, he is conscious of her beauty and longs to take her in his arms. Being with Barry, alone, seems like a lovely dream to Judith.

Early March will bring the return to the States of two prominent Pittsburghers, Andrew W. Mellon, Ambassador to the Court of St. James, and his daughter, Mrs. David K. Estes Bruce, the former Ailsa Mellon, who has been her father's official hostess.

Tuesday evening the Pilgrims Society will give a farewell dinner for Mr. Mellon, at which the Earl of Derby will preside.

Mr. Bruce is just back from a London visit. In the spring the Bruces will open their country home at Syosset, L. I.

* * *

In honor of Mrs. John Frederick Byers, of Sewickley Heights, and her daughter, Nancy Lee Byers, who are visiting at Del Monte Lodge, Pebble Beach, Cal., Mr. and Mrs. S. F. B. Morse gave a luncheon at the Cypress Point Club. The Byers plan to remain on the Monterey Peninsula for several days.

Jane Sloan, the daughter of the Andrew L. Sloans, of Pittsburgh, has been spending much time on the Monterey Peninsula, accompanied by Joan Diehl, daughter of the Ambrose Nevin Diehls, of New York and San Francisco. They were seen almost daily riding the trails at Del Monte or golfing over the Pebble Beach links.

* * *

Mrs. F. W. Edmondson and her sub-deb daughter, Anne, were at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, for the week-end.

* * *

Lecture Sponsors

Among the patronesses for the Drew Pearson's lecture Tuesday, February 28, in Carnegie Music Hall, to be given as a benefit by the American Association of University Women, are Mrs. S. B. Chalfant, Mrs. Arthur E. Braun, Dean Mary Watson Green and Sister M. Cyril Aaron.

Mr. Pearson is co-author of "Washington Merry-Go-Round" and "More Merry-Go-Round."

Mrs. A. S. F. Keister, general chairman, also announces that the patronesses will include Miss Mary Louise Succop, Mrs. Marc Darrin, Mrs. George B. Hatfield and Mrs. Carl E. Gloch.

Another Pittsburgher is being entertained out of the city, and she is popular Mrs. Ellen Stone Bailey, who is in West Hartford, Conn., for two weeks, as the guest of her sister and brother-in-law, the Sidney Stewarts, prominent in the Connecticut younger married set.

Eves A. Stewart Weds at Home Ceremony

At a small home ceremony at 8 o'clock Saturday night, Miss Eves Ann Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Stewart, of Fifth street, Aspinwall, became the bride of Soeren Brynn, son of Mrs. Soeren Brynn, of Jancey street, East End, with the Rev. J. S. Millholland, of the Aspinwall United Presbyterian Church, officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin and carried calla lilies. Her sister, Miss Mary Anne Stewart, as maid of honor, wore shell pink satin and carried roses and snapdragons. Walter Brynn was his brother's best man and Paul Stewart ushered. Mrs. Stewart wore wood-brown crepe.

There was a reception later for the families after which Mr. and Mrs. Brynn left on their wedding trip. They will reside in Jancey street. The bride attended Carnegie Tech, and the bridegroom the University of Pittsburgh.

League to Hold Series Of Manager Meetings

Continuing its program of spreading information relative to the proposed city manager plan, the Allegheny County League of Women Voters will conduct a number of neighborhood meetings in various sections of the city. Mrs. Roswell Johnson is entertaining a group at her home in Murray Hill avenue today with Mrs. H. K. Breckenridge speaking. Mrs. Stuart L. Henderson is to speak Thursday in the home of Mrs. O. W. Buenting, East End avenue and the subject is to be discussed by a League speaker Friday at a meeting of the Sheraden Women's Club in Sherodd Temple.

Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, chairman of the County League, will address a meeting in the home of Mrs. Sydney L. Kaufmann, Darlington road, on Wednesday. This gathering is sponsored by the legislative committee of the Council of Jewish Women.

Mrs. Jane G. Burtnett Wins Ghost Story Prize

A copy of Edgar Allen Poe's works was won by Mrs. Jane G. Burtnett for the original ghost story which she read at the forty-second anniversary of the Women's Press Club on Saturday night. The dinner, held in the College Club, North Craig street, was arranged by Miss Helen Donnelly, Mrs. John F. Collins, Jr., Miss Marie McSwigan and the president, Mrs. Anne Ryan Lesh.

To add atmosphere for the telling of the stories, the lights were turned out and the room was illumined only by a lunar-like blue "spot." Red roses and ferns decorated the table, and the place cards were from an original drawing showing a multitude of conversational subjects issuing from behind a screen. Virginia Craig, Mercedes Higgins and Peg Lanagan, known on the air as the Three Duchesses, concluded the evening with songs.

SLASHES AND OPEN EFFECTS FEATURE SPRING COSTUMES

OPEN-AIR sleeves and their near relations promise to be features of a good many 1933 clothes. They are scheduled for fashion success in practically every phase of style, from sports clothes to the most formal evening dresses, and vary from cotton golf blouses with peak-a-boo slits at the elbows and shoulders to elaborate evening affairs that are slashed up and down the center-front and center-back from throat to waistline.

* * *

THERE ARE varied types of open-air frocks. There is the one which is a discreet dinner dress, with sleeves slashed here and there so that the effect of both long sleeves and the sleeveless dress are obtained. There is the tennis dress whose slits here and there are practical provisions for freedom of movement rather than any effort at extreme smartness. The most startling of all is the dress for evening wear whose neckline may be discreet, but whose blouse portion uses its slashes for decoration, and whose skirt is slit to the knee.

* * *

THE EVENING dress in today's sketch is not an extreme version of this new fashion, but the variations in its neckline suggests the general idea. It is made of brown velvet and the contrast of the fabric half-sleeves from wrist to elbow, to the bare arm above, is striking.

* * *

THE ACCOMPANYING wrap, with its high collar, its cape and its long sleeves, is in three-quarter length. Its discreetness gives accent to the design of the dress it covers. Like the dress, it is in brown velvet.

"Pink of Perfection"

DELICIOUS pink lapels of shirred crepe and rosy buttons prove the perfect foil for the deep blue of this crinkled crepe costume. Under the jacket, the afternoon frock repeats the pink at the top in waistcoat effect.

A shining example from our collection, in which there are many such. New blistered silk crepes . . . geometric prints, discreet in design . . . and matelasse sheers, plain, self-striped and waffle weaves. Much navy blue with white, black with white, string and grey. And captivating little capes and jackets are everywhere.

Why be satisfied with the commonplace? 1933 prices at Grabowsky's are so reasonable.

Barlow, Wagner Concerts Tonight

AIRCASTER

Anniversary Of WGY On Air

Howard Barlow's inauguration of a new schedule of nightly variety broadcasts; WGY'S eleventh anniversary program with Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson, pioneer radio inventor, as the principal speaker, and a Wagner memorial concert by the New England Conservatory Symphony Orchestra head tonight's radio offerings.

Directing the Columbia Symphony Orchestra in a presentation of musical comedy and operetta selections on WJAS at 11, Barlow opens his recently-announced revamped series with Mildred Rose, soprano, and Charles Carlile, tenor, as tonight's guest artists.

The WGY anniversary broadcast is scheduled over NBC-WCAE at 11 p. m., and features in addition to Dr. Alexanderson, brief talks by Chester H. Lang and Martin P. Rice, pioneer broadcasting directors. A musical program also is presented.

Preludes to "Lohengrin" and "Die Meistersinger" and selections from "Siegfried" and "Gotterdammerung" comprised the all-Wagner program offered over an NBC network including KDKA by the New England Conservatory Symphony tonight at 10. Directed by Dr. Wallace Goodrich, dean of the conservatory, the broadcast originates in Boston.

Program Pointers

WCAE—Dr. Lawrence Shaffer, of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, speaking on "Why Doesn't My Child Obey?" 6; fourth dramatized episode of "Playgirls in Love," Sun-Telegraph serial story, 6:45; Scarab Murder, 8; Richard Crooks, 8:30; Paul Whiteman's orchestra, the Pickens Sisters, the Rollickers, Irene Taylor and Jack Fulton, 9:30; Morgan L. Eastman, introducing the new electric musical instrument, the amicon, 10; Music at Midnight with Paul Gannon.

WJAS—Add Brickell's "Pianoisms, 6:45; Fu Manchu, 8:30; Ruth Etting, 9; Mills Brothers, 9:15; Mysteries in Paris, 9:30; Columbia variety revue, 10.

KDKA—Booth Tarkington's "Maud and Cousin Bill" sketch, 6; Marx Brothers, 7:30; Eskimos with "Rosey" Rowswell, 8; Stephen Foster songs by Josef Pasternack's orchestra, 9:30.

WWSW—Duquesne Theater of the Air presentation of two playlets, "The Toy Heart" and "The House Across the Way," 9:30.

'Moanin' Low'

Petite Irene Taylor, she of the deep blues, sings with Paul Whiteman's orchestra on WCAE at 9:30 tonight, co-starring with Jack Fulton, the Pickens Sisters and the Rollickers Quartet.

Rolfe Bounces Back to Fame On Air

By AIRCASTER

The buxom B. A. Rolfe, rhythmic riveter of yesteryear and memorable mainly for his early exploitation of the product which finally mothered the magic carpet, bounced back on the air with his bustling band Saturday night—and served up the subtlest surprise of the year. And not the least surprised of all persons was Monsieur Rolfe himself.

He reeled right into the exact spot vacated last week by the sponsor who finished with him nearly two years ago and fell into a 26-week job of saying it with music to the non-pedestrian public who might be interested in buying automobiles.

The rotund Rolfe had been off the air a considerable time and there were many wise guys who'd tell you he was washed up. There was one smart agency fellow, however, who believed that, in view of the current deadlines of Saturday night, the lingering memories of the Rolfe band in that 10 to 11 p. m. spot and the wish of the auto client to cash in on popularity already attained, Rolfe was the ideal gent for the place.

Suddenly, Frank Black's sustaining bill for that hour was killed. A hundred and twenty minutes after he had been summoned, Rolfe had assembled and rehearsed an orchestra. He took the air, and while the band was playing, the prospective client wired in and said: "Sold."

* * *

Frank Black, head of NBC music, has devised a series to begin Friday, during which some of the country's great men will reveal their musical hobbies . . . There's William Woodin, for instance, head of the American Car and Foundry Company, who composes while in bed, using a guitar; Charles M. Schwab, who can't be happy until he hears the mellow strains of an organ, and a score or more of other business giants who go for melodie romance.

Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

And now maybe we settle the robin-starling argument. Mrs. Ralph Sayre, of Crafton Heights, sends me the ingenious formula to use to distinguish the robin from the similar appearing starling. If the birds hop and whistle, "Here, Peter, here's a cherry," they are robins. If they waddle and make a sound like "Fish-Fish-Fish," they are starlings.

* * *

Miami, since the recent shooting episode, has been on people's tongues more than ever before. So it behooves us to see that it is properly pronounced. According to one globe trotter the natives derive the pronunciation from an old Indian legend. Years ago a white man fell in love with an Indian maiden and told her that she was to be his wife. She breathlessly responded with "My, am I?"

* * *

Miracles are commonplace in the life of 75-year-old William Fink, Springdale globe trotter. Blind for five years, he regained his sight in 1915. Nine years ago a dentist removed all his teeth and furnished him with a set of "store teeth." Now he discovers that he is cutting his third set of teeth and he is as "tickled as a kid with a pair of red top boots."

* * *

That, Miss Daugherty, all depends. Symphony orchestras as a rule do not use the saxophone. The conductor interprets the music as he feels it and as he believes the composer meant it interpreted. Sometimes in a symphony a bass saxophone is used for a particular weird harmony effect. Maybe the globe trotters can give us specific instances of the use of the saxophone in symphony presentation.

* * *

Nice of you J. D. to offer me a lion cub. Thanks just the same.

COMING To End RUPTURE Troubles

Representatives of W. S. Rice, Adams, N. Y., originator of the Rice Method for the self treatment of rupture at home, will be at the Henry Hotel, Pittsburgh, Pa., from Wed. morning, Feb. 22, to Sat. evening, Feb. 25, to give a personal and free trial of his method to all sufferers who want to end rupture trouble and truss wearing.

No matter how bad the Rupture, how long you have had it, or how hard to hold; no matter how many kinds of trusses you have worn, let nothing prevent you from getting this FREE TRIAL. Whether you are tall and thin, short and stout, have a large abdomen, whether you think you are past help or have a rupture as large as your fists, this marvelous Method will so control and keep it up inside as to surprise you. It will so restore the parts where the rupture comes through that soon you will be as free to work at any occupation as though you had never been ruptured.

For the lady callers a woman expert, thoroughly trained, will assist in the demonstrations in private apartments. The trial will be absolutely complete and thorough without a penny of cost. You owe it to your own personal comfort and safety not to miss the great free demonstration. It is a real opportunity to learn how you may be done with chafing trusses and the danger, suffering and trouble your rupture has caused.

The hours are 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m. and evenings 7 to 9. Remember the dates and place, Henry Hotel, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Stunning Sleeve Treatment
Pattern 2557
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

by Anne Adams

A new high note of smartness is reflected in the frocks launched this season . . . they're the last word in simplicity and charm. This one has unusually smart dolman sleeves set in with clever seaming while the skirt lines give a pleasing illusion of sylph-like slimness. The pretty collar ties fairly close to the throat. Simply ravishing in a silk print but equally chic in a solid color.

Pattern 2557 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch fabric and ½ yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with pattern.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for this pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

THE SPRING FASHION BOOK contains 32 colorful pages of lovely Paris-inspired models for every spring need. It shows how to be chic at every hour of the day. Every style is practical, and easy to make. There are models for the larger figure, and pages of delightful junior and kiddie styles. Lovely spring lingerie, and accessory patterns, too. SEND FOR YOUR COPY. PRICE OF CATALOG 15 CENTS. CATALOG AND PATTERN TOGETHER 25 CENTS. Address all mail orders to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.

Legion's Protest Goes to Capital

The protest of the American Legion to Miss Emmelinne Pitt, Commissioner for the United States Department of Labor, against low wages, living conditions and commissary charges imposed upon ex-service men and others at work on government dams was to be taken to officials in Washington today, Miss Pitt said. The complaint, Miss Pitt said, was lodged against the Vang Construction Company.

Two Schools Here Association Units

Arnold School, South Braddock avenue, is one of two Pittsburgh schools that are now members of the noted Country Day School Association of the United States. The other is Shady Lane School, Fox Chapel avenue. There are 80 schools in the association. Charles W. Wilder is headmaster of Arnold School, and F. Dean McClusky, director of the Shady Lane School.

Harry F. Rose

Funeral services were held today for Harry F. Rose, 72, formerly a roller in the Carnegie Steel Mills, who died last Friday at his home, West Liberty, Butler County. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary E. Rose, a son and two daughters. Services were in the home, with interment in Homewood Cemetery.

DARROW HOPE OF DOOMED BOY

ROCKFORD, Ill., Feb. 20.—(Universal.)—Thrice sentenced to be electrocuted for the murder of a street car conductor, Russell McWilliams, 18, today pinned his hope of life on Clarence Darrow, famous veteran Chicago criminal lawyer.

About the time Darrow announced in Chicago that he would bend every effort in behalf of the boy, attorneys for the slayer prepared to file an appeal for commutation of the third sentence read by Judge Shurtleff at the retrial Saturday.

The court, in decreeing the boy must die April 21 in Joliet prison, called special attention to the fact he fired four additional shots into the body of the conductor after his first bullet had killed him in a holdup.

BANDITS SLAY POOR VICTIM

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Three dollars and 20 cents was all there was in the till of Isadore Wall's little Russian tea room. So they shot him dead.

As he meekly handed two holdup men three $1 bills and two dimes last night, one of the bandits said:

"Come on, that's not enough."

Wall said:

"It is all I have. Business is bad."

The man with the gun sneered. Wall, fearing he was to be shot down, ran towards a rear exit.

OAKLAND BANDITS KIDNAP, ROB GIRL AND ESCORT

by BURTON J. HENDRICK

Abridged for exclusive publication in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, by special permission of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie

The extent to which fortune played into Carnegie's hands was evidenced by a new acquisition made in 1883. Up to this time the Carnegie company had been the only producer of steel rails in the Pittsburgh region. But success inevitably breeds competition. About 1881 the Carnegie group were somewhat concerned by the defiant sight of a new mill rising only a few miles distant from their own—in a mushroom town, one of the outcomes of the real estate speculation of the early seventies, known as Homestead.

That the promoters were successful iron men of Pittsburgh, and that their works, profiting from the experience of the preceding decade, would comprise the latest achievements of engineers, made the encroachment rather formidable. Nor were the impending enemies especially modest or quiet in their pretensions; they openly boasted that they were aggressively attacking the Carnegie eminence.

The prosperity attending their first year only strengthened their self-assurance. But then the troubles that assail all undertakings of this kind slightly lessened their zeal. A succession of labor difficulties almost annihilated the new Homestead works. For more than a year life in this town was nothing but a phantasmagoria of strikes, lockouts and riots; The Amalgamated Association, far more powerful than it ever has been since, destroyed, seemingly for all time, the gentlemen who so presumptuously challenged the Carnegie entrenchments.

Two years of hard labor followed; prices dropped and orders practically ceased; instead of dividends the Homestead partners were called upon for assessments; bitter quarrels broke out among the proprietors, until one morning, gathered for a gloomy council of war, they were forced to acknowledge defeat. All that was asked now was to be extricated from their troubles with the least possible loss. Only one avenue of safety appeared, and, unpalatable as this might be to their pride, they decided to take it. They called on Andrew Carnegie and asked if he would purchase their mill. That Carnegie had been an interested spectators of their woes may be taken for granted, and that he possessed complete information on their financial status and had foreseen the approaching capitulation may also be assumed. It was written in the stars that the Homestead plant, at the proper moment, would drop painlessly into his hands; he had calculated on the event and had fixed the terms of surrender.

A New Partner

Therefore, when the chopfallen exploiters of Homestead entered Carnegie's office they found him in one of his pleasest moods. Yes indeed, he would gladly relieve them of the Homestead works. Not only this: he would take over at the same time the baffled promoters. His terms were reimbursement for every penny invested, and he offered payment in cash or in stock of the Carnegie company. With one exception the astonished and grateful Homesteaders accepted cash. They requested no time for deliberation; their decision was instantaneous. The proposal to pay in Carnegie stock was a proposal to make them Carnegie partners; but they had had enough of steel. Each took his $50,000, more or less, in money, congratulating himself on a happy exit from a deplorable bargain. The exception was Mr. W. H. Singer, who asked a respite of

CARRICK MAN VICTIM OF SAME PAIR

Four Others Held Up In Series of Crimes Over Week End

Covered with revolvers as they sat in an automobile in Oakland, a young woman and her escort were driven to a lonely spot in Squirrel Hill where they were robbed by two bandits, according to a police report. The automobile, money and jewelry were taken from them.

The girl, Miss Margaret Marshall, 22, of 4210 Millgate avenue, told police she gave her wrist watch and purse containing $5 to the bandits. From her companion, George McFeaters, 225 Edmond street, the robbers took $9.

Miss Marshall and McFeaters were seated in front of Isaly's ice cream plant in the Boulevard of the Allies when the robbers accosted them. Miss Marshall said she did not realize they were being held up as one robber jumped into the machine and commanded McFeaters to "move over."

OFFERS TO SCREAM

From the rear seat, the other bandit kept her covered with a revolver, Miss Marshall said. She added.

"On the way out, I turned to George and said: 'I'll scream if you want me to, George.' George said I'd better keep quiet, and the man in the back pushed his gun against my neck."

ROB CARRICK MAN

A short time later the bandit pair, abandoning their newly-acquired car, stopped Leslie Long near his home at 65 Underwood street, Carrick, forced him to drive to Brentwood, where they robbed him of $12.35, a wrist watch, cigaret lighter, owner's and driver's cards and then ejected him from the machine.

Police believe the bandits are the same who kidnaped Anna May Stumpf, of Penn avenue, late Wednesday night after robbing Miss Stumpf and her companion, J. Donald Ferguson of Wallace avenue, Wilkinsburg, of money, jewelry and Ferguson's machine. Miss Stumpf, unmolested, was forced from the machine in Crafton. William Hillgartner, of Brownsville road, and Edna May Lanz, of Westmont avenue, were robbed by the same bandit pair earlier that evening.

OTHER HOLDUPS

T. R. Kibler, of 1736 Leolyn street, an attendant of the American Gasoline Company station at Brownsville road and Agnew lane, was robbed of his week-end receipts by a thug who followed him from his station, according to a police report. The holdup occurred in Concordia street.

Two armed men held up James Bunch, attendant of the Atlantic Refining Company station at Braddock avenue and Finance street, yesterday, and robbed him of $15.50, according to a police report.

Rowland Heddle, manager of the Mayflower Drug Company store at Baum boulevard and Euclid avenue, told police two armed men held him up in his store late Saturday night and stole $15 from the cash drawer.

While she was walking in Wandless street, late Saturday night, Mrs. Irene Warrick, of 630 Bedford avenue, was robbed of her purse by a Negro, she reported. The purse contained 30 cents and a pair of gloves, she said.

MERGER URGED TO CUT TAXES

Consolidation of governmental functions to escape confiscatory tax rates was advocated by T. Ralph Barr, member of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes and Director of the Personal Property Tax Department, in an address yesterday before the Independent Voters' League of the Eleventh District, in Venetian Hall, Clairton.

Barr recommended five County Commissioners be elected for six-year terms to control the county administrative branch. They could not succeed themselves under his plan. Other administrative officers, now elected, would be appointed by the Commissioners and would be subject to civil service rules.

Barr also recommended state constitutional conventions to consolidate government for economic reasons, to liberalize the Sunday blue laws, and to dispose of the liquor question.

MRS. MAY WINS DIVORCE

Mrs. Betty Lewis May, daughter of J. E. Lewis, president of the Harbison Walker Refractories Company, today was granted a divorce by Judge John P. Egan from Harry Lytle May, also known as Harry Christian May, Jr.

The couple was married November 27, 1929, in an elopement to Wellsburg, W. Va. She was 15 at the time. They separated October 28, 1930.

Mrs. May testified her husband refused to provide a separate home for her and that they lived with her parents in Squaw Run road, Fox Chapel district. She declared he wanted her to drop all her friends. She said:

"He never wanted to do anything I wanted to do."

She testified her husband left her first October 9, 1930, that they later became reconciled, but that he finally announced his intention of leaving and her father sent him away in a chauffeur-driven car.

Gas Firm Official Dies On Way South

John Glass, 63, of Waynesburg, an official of the Carnegie Gas Company, died yesterday in the Allegheny General Hospital from a cerebral hemorrhage.

He was stricken in a Pullman while he and his wife, Mrs. Sadie Glass, were en route to Miami for a vacation. They had planned to stop over in Pittsburgh to shop.

Auto of Inspector Chief Hits Youth

Crossing Irwin avenue, near West North avenue, Taylor Scott, 23, of 1133 West North avenue was hit by an automobile early today, suffering a possible fracture of the skull. Scott was taken to Allegheny General Hospital. Police said the driver of the machine was Urban Dice, of 574 Teece avenue, Bellevue.

Chicken Thieves Shoot Flock Owner

EX-COUNCILMAN DIES IN HOME

He was born in the old Fifth Ward, and attended the Minersville School and Duff's Business College. After leaving the college he went to work in the Black Diamond Mill of the Crucible Steel Company, later becoming superintendent of the plant. Forty years ago he was elected to City Council from the Fifth Ward. He was a member of McCandless Lodge F. & A. M.

He leaves his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Agnes Douglas; two brothers, John and William Douglas, and three sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Buttron, of Aspinwall, and Etta and Mary Vogel, of Pittsburgh.

Vogel was a former school director in the Fifth Ward and was a member of the Central Board of Education.

Troy Hill Man Hurt In Fall From Wall

Believed to have fallen from the top of a 20-foot retaining wall near Harpster and Lager streets, Troy Hill, Thomas Ribaritsch, 33, of 850 Spring Garden avenue, was in Allegheny General Hospital suffering from a fractured skull. The unconscious man was found by a passerby who called firemen from Engine Company No. 49. They called police.

Drys Can Stay Dry, But They Can Go Visiting

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Today the wet's cup of joy overrunneth so much he will need two saucers.

Today the dry groaneth in his beard like Job and starts out looking for one.

For the House voteth on the Eighteenth Postscript in an effort to make the constitution look like a pretty good repair job.

The noble experiment is about to lose its title. The crusading lumberjacks in the Senate have already swung the ax and knocked off a chip the size of a baby button.

From now on the question is up to the franchised guinea pigs. If you pay your taxes you can vote. And if you can't pay your taxes we will take a slow check.

It puts the drys in a fairly strategic position geographically. You can live in a state that doesn't want it and visit a cousin who lives in a state that does.

FORD BATTLES BIG SUIT HERE

Attorneys argued in Federal Court today in an effort to determine whether the late Arthur L. Banker, East End automobile industry pioneer, waited too long before filing suit against the Ford Motor Company, of Detroit, for $18,000,000 he claimed because, he said, Ford infringed on a windshield patent of Banker's.

The suit was filed in October, 1931, and continued by Banker's widow, Mrs. May Mabel Banker, executrix of the estate, after Banker died in March, 1932.

Counsel for the Ford company maintained Banker was negligent in allowing a long lapse of time between the first alleged infringement and institution of suit. The Banker counsel, however, maintained that Banker's illness was the cause of delay.

M. D. Hemel, vice president of the Motor Products Company of Detroit, testified for the defense that a number of manufacturers have, since 1914, used clips on their windshields such as those on which Banker claimed to hold patents.

Motorman Stricken Running Car, Dies

Stricken while he was taking his trolley to the Frankstown avenue barns early yesterday, J. A. Stackhill, of 7014 Hermitage street, a motorman, died before the arrival of medical aid. He stopped his car in Liberty avenue and asked a passenger to summon aid.

A heart attack caused his death, according to a coroner's report.

McKees Rocks Man Hit-and-Run Victim

Jacob Markovicz, 47, of 807 Ninth street, West Park, McKees Rocks, is in the Ohio Valley Hospital today with a probable fracture of the right leg suffered when he was struck, according to a hospital report, by a hit and run driver near his home last night.

Probe Death of Man Found Hurt in Street

Several hours after he had been found unconscious in Lacock street, Leo Bearron, 60, homeless, died in the Allegheny General Hospital from a fractured skull, police reported. Homicide detectives were asked to investigate.

Wylie Avenue Store Damaged by Flames

The grocery store and home of Isaac Feldman at 2445 Wylie avenue was damaged $300 by fire believed to have been started by spontaneous combustion among matches early today.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 20.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph.

Jim Corbett, Gentleman Jim, truly a title earned and maintained through life. My acquaintance with Corbett has been near 25 years, as he was a great friend of Fred Stone's, who is a great friend of mine. Fred was a great boxer. Corbett always said he would have been middleweight champion if he had taken up that line. Corbett brought boxing out of the saloon into respectability. He would have been a credit to the clergy, to industry, to teaching, to anything, the same as he was a credit to boxing. A great credit to the stage, he was a splendid actor. Perhaps the best straight man that any comedian ever worked with. He never spoke ill of any man. A career lived in good will, and ended in glory.

Yours, WILL.

Will Rogers.

Fear of Flood Moves City to Fix Big Tanks

To avoid a repetition of the miniature flood that swept over the Fine View district five years ago when a 200,000-gallon steel water tank burst, the Bureau of Water is taking steps to repair three similar but larger tanks in Grandview Park, Mt. Washington.

Worn and rusted by their 30 years of service, these tanks, with a combined capacity of 2,225,000 gallons, have sprung numerous leaks during the past year and a half, according to complaints received by J. H. Kennon, managing engineer of the Water Bureau. During a recent cold spell, it was reported, water spouted six feet from one of the tanks.

Kennon is convinced that the tanks have outlived their maximum life and will confer with Public Works Director Edward G. Lang, on a City Council appropriation of $50,000 to replace one of the tanks and repair the others, he announced today.

All three tanks will be drained immediately for a thorough inspection, Kennon said, although he said there is no immediate danger of their bursting and flooding the surrounding land.

Two garages were demolished and two homes damaged in the Fine View tank flood. At that time Council had been warned repeatedly of the tank's weakness by an official of the water bureau.

Akron Shooting Victim Speeds Here in Auto

Clyde Miller, 26, of 345½ Collins avenue, was reported near death in St. Francis Hospital today from a shotgun wound in his hip, inflicted accidentally by a relative he was visiting in Akron yesterday, according to a police report.

Refusing hospital aid in Akron, Miller was rushed to Pittsburgh in an automobile driven by a sister-in-law, of Akron, it was reported. A blood transfusion was made last night.

Mrs. Eleanor Miller, his wife, told police they were visiting her sister, Mrs. Mabel Hartford. Her husband, Robert Hartford, and several other men were in the cellar of the home examining a shotgun when it discharged, police said they were told.

Upon arriving here Miller was taken to Dr. George J. Sarraf, of 3707 Penn avenue, who notified police. The Pittsburgh officers are checking with Akron authorities.

N.J. TREASURER FIGHTS WILSON DEATH PROBE

International News Service.

MT. HOLLY, N. J., Feb. 20.—The "big politician" who sought to stifle an inquest into the deaths of Ruth Mowdray Wilson and Horace Roberts, Jr., today stood revealed by his own candid admission as Albert C. Middleton, millionaire New Jersey State Treasurer and banker.

Middleton said he sought to prevent the holding of an inquest because of his friendship for the Wilson and Roberts families. Before an inquest could be held, it was necessary to exhume the bodies and perform autopsies.

TO TELL JURY

Meanwhile, former County Detective Arthur Carabine, who took a prominent part in the previous investigation, reaffirmed his determination to "break the case wide open whether the grand jury wants me to or not."

He said:

"There are things the grand jury ought to know, and I'll tell them."

Horace Roberts, Sr., said he may request a second exhumation of his son's body for a new study of the exact course of the fatal bullets.

Patrolman Ralph Marks, one of the first officers to enter the Wilson home after the tragedy, said he would see the county prosecutor about "something new" in the case.

Sylvia MacCullough, former night nurse at the Cooper Hospital, Camden, who was on duty when Roberts died, said she also will appear for an interview today.

TELLS MOTIVE

He declared:

"My sole motive was to spare Mr. Wilson, my lifelong friend, his family, and the Roberts family the shock of such a horrible thing—the digging up and cutting up of the bodies of their children.

"I have nothing to conceal. I am ready to go before Prosecutor Howard Eastwood at any time and tell exactly the role I played in this affair nearly four years ago."

Middleton revealed he had importuned Benjamin F. Farner, then Coroner, to abandon the idea of holding an inquest. Farner recently charged he was hindered in his investigation by "powerful political pressure."

SPURNED BY JURIST

The State Treasurer said Supreme Court Justice Joseph L. Bodine likewise spurned his requests to call off the inquest. He had approached Justice Bodine and the others also at the suggestion of Attorney Matlack Stackhouse, Middleton explained.

Middleton's statement confirmed rumors current almost from the day the coroner's jury found that Roberts murdered the girl and then ended his own life. Their unclad bodies, the heads riddled with bullets, were found behind locked doors of the girl's bedroom.

In a lengthy statement issued Saturday, the elder Roberts, who believes the two deaths are linked with the mysterious slaying of Bradway Brown, wealthy socialite, of Palmyra, cited 12 reasons why the investigation should be reopened.

CURFEW FALLS UNDER BAN

For 22 years this bell called out the Carrick Volunteer Fire Department, and from 1904, when the building was first built, to 1926, it sent Carrick children scampering home to bed at 9 o'clock.

It has been rung since 1926 when the City took over the building. Every New Years firemen of Engine Company No. 23, now sole occupants of the building, scaled the narrow dusty ladders of the tower and rang it to help welcome in the New Year.

Bomb Plot Foiled, Patrolman Shot

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 20.—Patrolman Clark Wagner was grazed by a bullet when he investigated an alleged attempt to bomb the home of Dr. Joseph Sofranic in Poland last night. Children of the physician, alone in the house, summoned the officer when they saw two men in a ravine nearby. When the officer investigated several shots were fired and one grazed his head. The men escaped. A fuse and cap were found near the house.

STORY CONTEST FOR WAR VETS

World War veterans, members of their families and friends today were offered the opportunity to tell their war stories.

In conjunction with the showing of the motion picture, "The Big Drive," beginning Wednesday at the Fulton theater, a committee of veterans will judge true stories submitted to them, and select the best each day during the picture's run. The winner will receive four admission tickets, and the winning stories will be published daily in The Sun-Telegraph.

The stories must not exceed 300 words. They are to be mailed to the Best Story Committee, Fulton Theater, Sixth street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"The Big Drive" was compiled from official war pictures. It shows action at the front and depicts other historical incidents.

The committee of veterans, who will judge the stories, includes Robert K. Cochrane, Jr., county commander, American Legion; Alfred E. Schwenke, past county commander, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Ronald L. Thompson, chairman of the public celebrations committee of the legion, and Bernard McDermott, past commander of the McKees Rocks Post, V. F. W.

Woman Injured As 2 Cars Crash

A young woman, whose identity was withheld, was injured Saturday night in an automobile crash on Bigelow boulevard and taken to Homeopathic Hospital. The automobile in which she was riding bore Pennsylvania license No. 34-796, which records show, was issued to J. W. Henry, general agent for an insurance company. Henry was not in the car at the time of the accident. It was reported the car was driven by his chauffeur, W. H. Myers, of 227 Carrington street.

The other car, license No. EA, was issued to W. L. Trimble, of the North Side, head of a contracting company. It was reported driven by the chauffeur, Frank Duppin.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

COLDS ARE NOW REACHING OUT FOR VICTIMS!

Be Wise—Be Careful—Adopt This Simple Precautionary Measure!

Colds are increasing. In some sections influenza is breaking out. Don't be alarmed, but don't be careless.

A cold is much easier avoided than cured! Do the sensible thing and adopt the ounce of prevention policy. Stay out of crowds as much as you can. Avoid coughers and sneezers. Dress warmly, keep your feet dry and sleep in a well ventilated room.

Every morning and night take a tablet or two of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. This will keep the bowels open and combat infection by cold germs.

Millions know Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine as an excellent cold remedy, but not enough know it as an equally excellent preventive. Learn its efficacy and keep a package handy all winter long as your "safety first" measure.

If you have already caught cold there is nothing better you can take than Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It doesn't merely suppress the cold—it drives it completely out of the system. At the same time, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

For more than forty years, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Now in two sizes—30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and look for the initials L B Q stamped on every tablet. Reliable dealers will not try to sell you a substitute.

Come to think of it . . .

it's very much the same with cigarettes.

No cigarette should ever be "strong." That means that they should never be too rich or over-seasoned—not harsh or "bitey."

Chesterfields are mild. They taste better.

JUDGE DEFENDS ART EXHIBIT AWARDS

(The Sun-Telegraph today prints this exclusive comment on the Associated Artists' Exhibit in Carnegie Museum by Edward Hopper, famous New York artist, who was a member of the jury which awarded a prize to a painting now declared a copy by Ralph Bowman, Pittsburgh artist.

It was in criticizing the second prize picture, one of three alleged copies by Bowman, that Miss Louise Persing expressed her doubts of the sincerity of the jury. Mr. Hopper today answers that charge.)

By EDWARD HOPPER

A jury, of course, presumes that the works submitted to it are original and judges accordingly. Any suggestion that the jury had any doubt as to their originality is absurd. I know that there was not the slightest suspicion in the jury's mind as to the works in question. The members of the jury could hardly be expected to be familiar with a cartoon in a newspaper or with any of the millions of sources from which a picture might be copied.

As to the charge that the jury was insincere and set out to make a joke of the exhibition this is unjust. I do not know of two more sincere and thoughtful painters than the two that served with me.

We judged according to our best knowledge of painting and, being human, may have made errors of judgment, as all juries have made and always will make. No perfection is ever attainable by the jury system or by any other method of judging works of art, that I know of.

In every large exhibition there are some good works overlooked by the jury and some mediocre works accepted. This is in part owing to the fallibility of the judges and in part to the preponderance of mediocre work submitted to every show. One must often accept works that one is indifferent to in order to get enough for an exhibition.

CONTROVERSY OLD

Any reconsideration of the jury's decision is a question for the Associated Artists of Pittsburgh to decide. To date they have made no request to me for such reconsideration.

The question of naive and primitive works in painting is a profound one and I do not feel that I have come to any definite conclusion about it or that I ever shall. It is a question that has been causing hatreds and enthusiasms among artists for some time now, since the advent of the so-called "modern movement."

That bakers, blacksmiths and white wings should be "glorified" and achieve honors and recognition is, of course, a bitter thing to painters who have spent years of toil learning the painter's craft.

But long years of work at the craft, while they may bring skill, do not always bring something to say and though many competent painters have something to say a great many more have little or nothing to say.

CITES KANE'S WORK

This is where the baker or the blacksmith has his chance, because he is as likely to have an interesting or even a great vision of the world as the more competent professional.

The case of John Kane, the Pittsburgh house painter, is to the point. With a limited technical equipment he has created things of considerable beauty. If a painter can make known his vision with limited skill, perhaps more is excess baggage. I do not know.

To many exhibitions nowadays the baker and the blacksmith, encouraged by the success of other stumblers in painting, have sent their works. Some of these works are merely naive and say nothing, others are naive and say something.

In the vast sea of technically competent mediocrity that makes up the work to be selected at most exhibitions one grasps at anything with a sign of life and this is often found in the most unskillful things.

BILLY GRELL, 10 . . . . . WILHELM SENT HIM A POSTCARD

Youthful Autograph Collector Happy Over Card

Not many people can get a card from an emperor—even if he is deposed. But Billy Grell, 10, of 1021 Marena street, has one.

The card, received last week, was signed simply "Wilhelm." But a handsomely colored portrait print of himself on the other side, revealed the sender's last name to be Hohenzollern, ex-Kaiser of Germany.

A type-written message on the card said:

"Thanks for the friendly wishes on my birthday."

The ex-Kaiser's birthday happens to fall on January 27, also the birthday of Mrs. William Grell, Billy's mother. So Billy generously sent greetings to Germany's former ruler in honor of the double celebration.

Billy, by the way, has a hobby of collecting autographs.

PONTIFF TALKS OF MEXICO

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—The hope that God's grace during the Holy Year would bring a spiritual return to Mexico, Spain and Russia, where "shadowy sects, shameless enemies and decriers of God undermine foundations of Christian life, raise a banner against God and without God," was expressed yesterday by Pope Pius.

The Pope presided at the reading of the final decree of beautification of the venerables, Gemma Galgani, Italian nun, and Giuseppe Pignatelli, an Italian Jesuit.

Saying the Holy Year promises to be full of spiritual fruits, the Pontiff said:

"We hope God will fulfill our wishes for all the world which need help, but with particular mercy where the need is greatest: Poor Russia, where so many good servants of God lead lives which are a marytrdom even greater than martyrdom itself; Mexico, where spiritual devastation continues so ruinously; poor Spain, so near us not only in location, but in heart, which has so many sad memories of her recent past, sorrowful present and threatening future."

GROUP TO MARK ST. DAVID'S DAY

The anniversary of St. David, patron of Wales, will be observed by a banquet at the Fort Pitt Hotel Saturday evening, March 4, at 6:30. R. H. Davies, national recorder of the American Gorsedd, will be chairman, with Raymond D. Evans, assistant United States attorney, as toastmaster. A musical program has been prepared and a prominent Welsh speaker will deliver an address. The event is under the auspices of the American Gorsedd.

Religious observance of St. David's Day will be held this year at the First Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, Sunday afternoon, March 5, at 2:30. The Rev. R. E. Williams is chairman of the religious observance.

SEE GRIDIRON FETE SUCCESS

Indications that the second annual gridiron dinner, staged by Pittsburgh newspapermen under the sponsorship of the Amen Corner, will be a complete success was seen today in the several hundred reservations already on hand at the William Penn Hotel. The banquet is to be staged Saturday night.

Fred E. Obley, secretary of the Corner, is in charge of reservations while John B. Townley, political writer, is in charge of the show. More than a score of skits dealing with national, state and local politics are to be presented.

Lay Group Sets Religious Forum

Testimony of young people on religious living will be heard at services sponsored by the Christian Laymen's Association of Pittsburgh March 6 to 10 at 7:45 p. m. in the Second Presbyterian Church. Ministers in the city have been notified of the services and urged to bring persons to the meetings.

Colds can be ABORTED

(with lemon juice)

Don't waste time with cold remedies that only relieve a cold. If you want to end your cold, abort it. The lemon juice treatment will do it. Squeeze two full-size lemons in a large glass of very hot water and drink without sugar. First, take three tablets of Pape's cold compound an hour apart. This clears the head, dries the nasal passages, reduces any fever. The lemon juice then drives all cold symptoms right out of the system. Bedtime is best. This treatment will abort the worst cold overnight. One cold compound tablet will check a cold at any time, for several hours; then when night comes you can get rid of it by abortion. Any druggist has Pape's cold compound. It's perfectly safe. Try it, and you'll never go back to half-way remedies.

"I want my husband to admire my skin"

A WIFE never forgets that a clear skin is irresistible and that some other woman might prove more attractive.

How can she have a clear skin, too?

There is one way which many have found efficient . . . by restoring deficient red-cells and hemo-glo-bin (skin and tissue purifier) to the blood.

S.S.S. Tonic has the special property of increasing the red-cells and restoring deficient hemo-glo-bin to the blood.

Tens of thousands yearly take a course of S.S.S. to pep up a lagging appetite, regain old-time vigor, restore color to the skin and to build up resistance to infectious diseases, pimples and boils.

DUKES ENGAGE WASH-JEFF

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

St. Louis Cold to Vance. Hoblitzel in New Role. Hitters Get Preference. Old Tribute to Wagner. Derby Favorite Shaping. Lapchick Ideas Opposed.

SWAPPING OF DAZZY ALREADY URGED

THOSE WHO IMAGINE that it doesn't require anything more than old reputations to pitch winning ball games may think that the Cardinals profited in getting Dazzy Vance for Owen Carroll, but St. Louis critics and fans are not figuring that way at all. Mound City people continue to view the coming of Vance with an entire absence of enthusiasm, and the scribes are publishing the opinion that unless Dazzy accepts the salary offered and a chance to prove himself again on the hill he will not linger long on the Redbird roster.

Dazzy Vance

In fact, some of the writers are urging an immediate trade that will send Vance elsewhere. A former Cardinal manager is quoted as saying that Dazzy never was a brainy pitcher, but merely overpowered the batters, even when picking his spots, and that with the strength of his arm waning he will be a mark. Trading Vance may not be easy, however. Charley Grimm laughed at the suggestion of a Vance-Grimes swap.

AN OLD PITT product will appear in a new role the coming spring. Dick Hoblitzel has been engaged to umpire the exhibition games of the world champion Yankees during the training trip.

When Pitt was W. U. P., Hoblitzel played end on the varsity football team and won a letter in 1907. Later, as a diamond performer, he played first base for Wheeling, and then went to the majors.

THE IDEAL OUTFIELDER is, of course, the one that can both field and hit. But such a combination is not easily found. There are great fielders with no punch, and strong hitters weak on defense.

As between the latter two types, the less capable fielder with the wallop has the call. He will win more games with his bat than he will lose through his defensive flaws. At least that's the platform adopted by the Red Sox.

"FROM HERE ON our outfielders must be able to hit," President Bob Quinn serves notice. "I've come to the place in baseball where I realize the futility of expecting slick outfielders to carry along a man who does not hit much more than his weight. If you can't get hitting strength, lusty and steady, from your outfielders and your first baseman, you may as well fold up and admit it's no use carrying on. This platform may mean some changes in our team. One or more outfielders who are slick, even sensational, defense men, may have to give up their places to boys with less grace and polish in the field, but owning much greater power on attack."

Bob Quinn

IF THE DESIRED efficiency in batting and fielding could be taught to the Red Sox by a man who was a star in both departments, Manager Marty McManus would have no cause to worry, for he has as coach and scout one of the greatest of all time in Hugh Duffy.

Duffy, Tommy McCarthy and Jimmy Bannon made up an immortal outfield for the Boston Nationals in the '90's, and Duffy in addition was one of the greatest batsmen of any era. He hit well over .300 in 11 seasons, and to lead the league in 1894 he set a mark of .438 which never has been equaled in the National or American.

SHOWING THE POPULAR chord that the signing of Honus Wagner as a Pirate coach struck in other cities on the National League circuit, the Chicago Tribune publishes an old verse about the Flying Dutchman, resurrected by a Windy City fan.

The contributor is a feminine fan, too. She wrote: "Since the great Honus Wagner has returned to the Pittsburgh club as coach, I am sending a verse which appeared many years ago when Honus was a slugger of renown. Sorry I have not the author's name." The verse is appended:

"I know just how a fellow feels the cold gray morning after;
I know just how it hits a guy when bills begin to grow,
And bill collectors on the sly line up in motley row.
I know exactly how it feels when up and down they face him,
And with a line of endless spiels they follow up and chase him.
But in the line of ticklish deals that send one to the mat,
I wonder how the pitcher feels when Wagner comes to bat.
If I should swiftly turn around and face a grizzly bear.
Or, walking down a street high-fenced, with no long stretch to run,
Should find my features pressed against an automatic gun.
But in the line of ticklish deals that leaves one feeling flat,
I wonder how a pitcher feels when Wagner comes to bat."

FAVORITES IN THE future books on the Kentucky Derby do not always hold the form they showed the previous season as 2-year-olds, but Ladysman, first choice for the Churchill Downs classic of 1933, promises to live up to expectations. William R. Coe's crack colt is reported doing splendidly in winter training.

The champion juvenile of last year is galloping several miles every morning at Mrs. Charles Amory's farm in Maryland and shows every sign of being right in the spring. He is now a big horse, too, and in appearance an ideal racing machine. He has taken on more than 150 pounds since last fall and now weighs 1,150.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL COACHES do not concur in the views expressed recently in The Sun-Telegraph by Joe Lapchick, of the Rosenbloom Celtics, that the floor game cannot be what it ought to be as a competitive sport or as a spectacle without personal or body contact.

George E. Keogan

Dr. H. C. Carlson, Pitt mentor, reports a conversation he had on the subject with George E. Keogan, coach at Notre Dame, who in addition to his long college connections at Minnesota, Allegheny and Notre Dame, has been in a position to observe the professional game closely in such a hotbed as Indiana.

DR. CARSON and the Notre Dame coach agreed that regardless of any advantages the pros may be able to see in personal contact, that feature was derogatory to college and school basketball. It was for the purpose of eliminating personal contact that large floors were adopted, though the large number of fouls called now indicates that the new line across the center has defeated the purpose largely. Coach Keogan reported having observed such a steady decline in the professional game that in places where players used to get $200 a week for floor play alone they are now working at other jobs for $150 a month and playing basketball occasionally on the side. "No one can deny that the pros have a better finesse than collegians," said Dr. Carlson. "That's their business, and they're naturally better at it. But the slump of their game indicates that their style was not more popular. It can't be said to be due to the depression, inasmuch as under the same economic conditions the college game still is drawing well. The answer to the personal contact argument appears to be that whereas the pro game declined while offering that feature the college game has thrived without it."

VETERAN GIVEN IN PAYMENT FOR SMITH

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 20.—(En Route with the Pirates.)—On a short stopover at Kansas City today, the Pittsburgh Pirate management paid its last instalment to the Blues on the purchase of Pitcher Hal Smith, by transferring possession of Catcher Bill Brenzel to the Kansas City club.

The transaction was completed in the Kansas City station. There President Bill Benswanger and Manager George Gibson, of the Buccos, met with Lee Keyser and Tris Speaker, big bosses of the Blues, and the deal was put over.

BOUGHT LAST YEAR

Hal Smith was bought last summer for a large cash outlay and two players. Outfielder Stanley Schino, of the Bucco farm at Tulsa, previously had been ordered to Kansas City. Brenzel started the last season with the Pirates, but he did most of his catching for the Newark Bears and San Francisco Seals under a Pittsburgh option.

Speaker had a fanning bee with the Pirates. Among other things he said:

"I think Gibson has a wonderful ball club and one that ought to be up in there all the way."

HONUS ATTRACTION

A new and illuminating chapter for a best seller of baseball was being written as the Pirate special rolled merrily over the plains of Kansas. No doubt you think it extremely difficult to unfold any new baseball vistas for a guy named Honus Wagner, yet the heroic figure who enters his sixtieth year this week again was the bow-legged kid of 40 years ago, the same boy who jumped a Steubenville-bound freight out of Carnegie to give a prelude to what many regard as the most glorious career of the diamond sport.

RODE IN CABOOSE

The Flying Dutchman in person, sitting in the adjacent seat, just interposed an objection in the interest of accuracy. Said Honus:

"Just to get the record straight, put it down that I rode the caboose of that freight 40 years ago and the crew made me feel as welcome as any ride I have taken in Mr. Pullman's care."

Well, we'll let Honus win that one, but isn't it just as romantic to ride the little caboose to the door of a big career as to sit atop a carload of coal?

Anyhow, Honus is back in the Pullman circuit, but he is bent on an entirely new adventure, and the lad who tried to watch all three rings of the circus at the same time didn't have a thing on Wagner as his eyes feast on settings he has never viewed before.

It's the Flying Dutchman's first trip west of Omaha. In other words, fans, Honus, after an absence of more than 15 years, which followed better than 20 years of active service in the majors, is No. 1 rookie with the Pirates. His hair has turned to gray, but the heart is as young as on that day he broke through the confines of Carnegie to make a name for himself.

FIRST TRIP WEST

So you know now that Wagner has stolen this traveling show. The rookies on the train look upon him with a fond admiration and drink up each word he utters. But, while he was eligible for a covered-wagon journey to California, he has yet to see any of baseball's happy hunting grounds in that state.

The first squad, headed by Manager George Gibson and President Bill Benswanger, had an enjoyable tour from Pittsburgh to Kansas City. The 14 persons who left the home port yesterday morning reached Chicago last night in good shape and a bit later they headed for Kansas City, the squad augmented by four. The athletes were in Kansas City for a short time this morning, they leaving this big town about 10 o'clock. The party still had a lot of Kansas to see as it rushed in a southwesterly sweep toward El Paso. The latter city is due to be reached tomorrow morning.

Chillysauce

Waite Hoyt belies his many years service in the majors by his youthful appearance. He said:

"I feel great. I like to skate and partook of a workout nearly every day in the off-season."

Honus Wagner sprang the winning Jim Corbett story of the trip. Listen to Wagner:

"Jim Corbett was a good baseball player. Years ago the Pirates played a game in Portland, Maine. Corbett appeared against the Buccos as a side attraction. The boxer was on the same train as that carried the Pirates. He strolled into our private car, and had a chat with Fred Clarke and me.

"Claude Ritchey saw the stranger in our car and mentioned his presence. I ribbed up Ritchey to tell Jim he was in a private car and to order Corbett to leave at once. Claude got into an argument with Jim and was challenging him when we stepped in and woke him up."

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF LAST SATURDAY: THE PARADOX OF ROCKEFELLER CENTER—It is estimated that the total weight of the demolished buildings on the site of Radio City, and of the earth and rock removed by the excavators preparatory to the new construction was 1,338,000 tons. The new buildings when completed will weigh 917,000 tons, so that after completion of Radio City the dead weight bearing down on the bed rock of the site will have decreased by 421,000 tons. U. S. CONGRESS, SENATE AND WHITE HOUSE IN ONE YEAR—James A. Garfield was elected to Congress nine times. While serving in the Forty-sixth Congress, the Legislature of his state elected him to the United States Senate for six years on January 13, 1880. A few months later, he received unexpectedly the Presidential nomination of his party and was elected President of the United States in November of the same year. He was in the unusual position of having to surrender his seat in both Houses to enter upon the occupancy of the White House.

TOMORROW: A MASS MURDERESS.

PITT AND TECH PLAY IN EAST THIS WEEK

The Lineup

DUQUESNE		WASH-JEFF
McGeever (c)	F	Leiber
Brenner	F	Perkins
MacDougall	C	Headley
Moore	G	Post
Reiter	G	McVicker

Referee—Leo Mackey. Umpire—Buck Snyder.

By JESS CARVER

Pittsburgh gets but one college basketball game on its platter this week, and it is fitting and proper that the champions, the Dukes of Duquesne, should be the ones to cavort before the admiring gaze of John Q. Fan. Tonight, the Dukes meet Wash-Jeff in the Bluff gymnasium in their thirteenth contest of the season. Even if this thirteenth game were being played on a Friday, the thirteenth, it still would be necessary for the Presidents to be spotted a dozen of 15 points, at least, to give them a chance against the Dukes.

Coach Chick Davies will keep two of his stars—the two who won the second Pitt game for him—on the bench tonight. Paul Birch and Art Feldman still are more or less crippled and need the rest. Capt. Bunk McGeever will start at a forward, paired with Irv Brenner. MacDougall is to shift to a forward and Reiter and Moore, of course, will be at the guards.

LEIBER W. & J. STAR

Wash-Jeff will present one stellar individual performer in Leiber, a forward, who has been hitting very well for the staggering Prexies this season. He's gone good against all Wash-Jeff opponents save Carnegie Tech, and 12-point nights have not been unusual on his part.

A return clash with the Presidents at Washington, another with Carnegie Tech and one in Morgantown with West Virginia will complete the Duke's localized schedule for the season.

Wilson Dropped

Whitney Wilson, the Pitt substitute forward, who allegedly struck Umpire Lee Mackey on the nose following the Pitt-Duquesne game last Friday night, has been dropped from the squad under orders from Director of Athletics W. Don Harrison.

There are many fans who are not satisfied that it was Wilson who hit Mackey. Wilson is a blond and there are those who insist that it was a dark-haired lad who socked Leo. One prominent coach, who witnessed the affair, told this correspondent Saturday night that he was all but positive that Wilson had no hand in the affair.

TEAMS GO EAST

Both the Pitt and Tech squads go East for their action this week. The Tartans meet N. Y. U. in Madison Square Garden on Wednesday night, play Temple in Philadelphia Friday and Penn State at State College Saturday. Pitt engages Georgetown in Washington Friday and the Navy at Annapolis Saturday.

Tonight, at Beaver Falls, Geneva can grab the Tri-State Conference championship by beating Grove City, a feat which the Covenanters failed to accomplish last Friday night on the Grovers' floor. If Geneva wins tonight, the race will be over. A victory for Grove City will give Waynesburg a chance to get into the title chase by taking the Covenanters later on.

The Carnegie Tech and Wash-Jeff boxing match, booked for tomorrow evening at Washington, has been postponed at the request of the Tartans, who were forced to call off their match with Pitt last week due to the ineligibility of several punchers.

Also, the West Virginia-Georgetown Intercollegiate Conference basketball game, which was cancelled last Friday night when the Hoyas failed to appear in Morgantown in time, has been called off for good.

R. SMITH LEADS

Bob Smith, of Carnegie Tech, has the highest scoring average of the city varsity regulars, the Tartan star having averaged 10 points a game for 10 games. Paul Birch, of the Dukes, has the second best average, seven and five-sixths points for 12 games. The leaders and their averages follow:

Players	Games	FG.	F.	TP.	Ave.
R. Smith, Tech	10	38	24	100	10
Birch, Dukes	12	35	24	94	7 5-6
Brenner, Dukes	12	36	17	89	7 5-12
Feldman, Dukes	10	23	24	70	7
Jagnow, Tech	10	27	8	62	6 1-5
Cribbs, Pitt	14	37	19	93	6 9-14
D. Smith, Pitt	16	35	31	101	6 5-16

Mexican Welter Defeats Joe Glick

SCHOOL HOCKEY PLAY OPENS

By JULIUS LEVIN

The recently-organized Interscholastic Hockey League will usher in the season at Duquesne Garden today when Central Catholic High meets Arnold High and Dormont opposes University School.

Saturday afternoon Dormont plays Arnold and University School meets Central Catholic High.

The league schedule calls for games each Monday and Saturday.

Arrangements have been completed by Coach E. H. Davies for the sixth annual Eastern United States Schools for the Deaf Athletic Association basketball tournament to be held at the Western Pennsylvania School for the Deaf, Edgewood, next Friday and Saturday.

Carl Glock, director of the eighth annual Allegheny-Kiski Valley tournament to be held in the New Kensington High gym next Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, today announced the pairings for the first round. New Bethlehem drew a bye in the upper bracket of the first round, while Vandergrift drew a bye in the lower bracket. The pairings follow:

GAMES MONDAY
UPPER BACKET

Springdale vs. Oakmont.
Franklin vs. Saltsburg.
Aspinwall vs. Har Brack.
New Bethlehem drew a bye in the upper bracket and will meet the winner of the Aspinwall-Har Brack game in the second round.

GAMES TUESDAY
LOWER BRACKET

Kittanning vs. Verona.
Apollo vs. Arnold.
Vandergrift drew a bye in the lower bracket and will meet the winner of the Apollo-Arnold game in the second round.

Fencing has been added to the sports sponsored by Shady Side Academy. Joe Kennedy, a former Yale man, will have charge of the classes on Mondays and Wednesdays.

Doyle With Pirates On Trip To Paso Robles Training Camp

Hear ye, hear ye, ye baseball fans!

You must read the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph daily and Sunday to keep properly posted on the doings of our Pirates in their quest of the National League pennant.

When the bold Buccaneers pulled out yesterday for their Paso Robles (Cal.) training camp, Charles J. (Chilly) Doyle, veteran baseball expert of the Sun-Telegraph, was aboard their train.

He will write all of the news that develops en route and will cover the doings in the training camp and training games. He will tell you how the local hopes shape up, who's who among the rookies and veterans, and give you the atmosphere of the training camp.

Read his article today and daily thereafter, and you'll be able to talk intelligently on the subject of baseball as it concerns the home lads.

As an additional feature, Doyle will wire special bulletins each Wednesday containing exclusive bits to be broadcast during the weekly radio programs of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE.

GOLF VETERAN SUCCUMBS

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—George Ayton, golf professional at the Biltmore Forest Country Club for the past eight years, died last night of pneumonia.

A native of Scotland, Ayton was known to thousands of golfers in the United States and Canada. He won the Western open championship of Canada in 1920.

During his career as a professional golfer he served clubs at Carlisbad, Germany, Vienna, St. Andrews, Scotland, and Nieuport Bains, Belgium.

Hakkarainen Wins Snowshoe Marathon

ROSIE PASSERS TO PLAY HERE

The Rosenblum-Celtics, of Cleveland, outstanding professional basketball team, will represent Pittsburgh in Sunday afternoon games next season if the Sunday Blue Laws are legislated out in Pennsylvania.

Announcement to this effect was made today by J. J. Freund, Jr., local promoter, who has shown the Rosies here twice recently and is planning another game for next week.

The recently organized Pittsburgh Professionals who played the Rosies at Duquesne University last Saturday, will be augmented by several other stars for the coming game, according to Freund, who plans to add Pip Koehler, former local ace, now manager of the Toledo Pros, and Cookie Cunningham to his forces.

JIM CORBETT LAID TO REST

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Friends of his fighting days, celebrities of the ring and stage, mourned in tiny St. Malachy's Church today as funeral services were sung over the body of James J. Corbett, first of the Marquis of Queensberry heavyweight champions.

After a solemn high mass of requiem at 11 a. m., the body was taken to Cypress Hills Cemetery for interment, to rest not far from his home in Bayside, L. I., where he died Saturday after a long illness.

Heedless of a cold rain that beat steadily down, a crowd of several hundred stood in Forty-ninth street, outside the church known as the "actor's own," as Father F. Hayes, from the Sacred Heart Parish in Bayside, celebrated the mass. He was assisted as deacons by the Rev. Patrick A. Gallagher and the Rev. James A. Best, both of St. Malachy's.

In the same pews were knelt stately veterans of the stage, men who knew Corbett as the stage star of vaudeville and drama, were bowed the close-cropped heads of modern day prize fighters, as well as companions of the new fistic era Corbett brought in with his conquest of John L. Sullivan in 1892.

'DOMINATE THE OTHER MAN,' CORBETT'S SUCCESS CREED

HOT AMBITION TO BE BEST CONQUERS

(This is the first of a series of three articles by Hype Igoe, famous New York boxing writer, on the career of his longtime friend, the late Jim Corbett. The others will be published tomorrow and Wednesday.)

By HYPE IGOE
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Always one thought spurred on the late Gentleman Jim Corbett in anything he ever did in the way of athletics.

Dominate the other man!

He made that his creed. Years before he won the heavyweight title, he goaded himself into the belief that he would topple the bull-like John L. Sullivan into the dust.

Night and day, week after week, month upon month, year by year he kept telling himself that he would conquer "The Noblest Roman of Them All."

Back of that determination to destroy the Boston Strong Boy was the resolve to dominate Sullivan from the first moment that he met him until victory was his. That clever, deft domination did more to stretch Sullivan out in the sawdust of that New Orleans ring than actual blows.

As a boy of 15, he had got the first glimpse of Sullivan when the latter came to San Francisco on his famous "meet all comers" tour. Corbett at that time, like most of the kids in the country, secretly worshiped the bellowing, blustering, bar-pounding John L.

FIRST GLIMPSE OF JOHN L.

Sullivan was offering $1,000 in gold to any man who could stay four rounds with him, Queensbury style. His great right fist had been clanging against unknown chins from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and not a man had earned the bag of gold.

Prof. George M. Robinson, a local teacher of boxing and a magnificent specimen of a man, indeed as formidable looking as Sullivan himself, accepted the defi. Mechanics' Pavilion was jammed to the doors by those who were willing to pay to see the "Professor" try.

Corbett, in his boyish enthusiasm, had appealed to a doorman for a chance to see the mighty John L. in action. The doorkeeper had been and still was a hero worshiper himself, and he slipped the gangling youngster into the gallery long before the arrival of the other gods. Young Corbett sat there six hours, waiting in the shadows, hardly daring to breathe lest his presence be discovered.

A JOKE BOUT

That four-round bout between Sullivan and Robinson became the joke of the Golden West. Robinson was so badly frightened that he covered his head with his arms and fell to the floor every time Sullivan feinted or got within striking distance. Robinson took a count of nine each time he went down. Sullivan became so enranged that he bawled:

"Whatta ya doin' mister, playing peek-a-boo?"

Sullivan failed to stop the "Professor" and lost his pot o' gold, but he branded Robinson for life. From that night on, the "Professor" became known as "Peek-a-boo" Robinson, a name which finally drove him out of California, broken-hearted.

Up there in the gallery, young Corbett became another Sullivan slave, the champion's superb physique courage, showmanship and rip-roaring style captivating the youngster completely. The 26-year-old John L. Sullivan of that night was something upon which an awe-inspired youth might gaze. Corbett was born to boxing that night.

Two years later, when Corbett was just budding as an amateur boxer, Sullivan returned to San Francisco, this time to defend his heavyweight title against Paddy Ryan.

SULLIVAN, THE IDOL

Corbett, in his own life story, "The Roar of the Crowd," tells of that enthusiasm for Sullivan as it existed, even in his own family. He wrote:

"Never shall I forget having dinner with my dear old father and mother, with the rest of the family, and hearing dad grow jubilant over his visit to Sullivan's training quarters that afternoon.

"Dad really grew quite excited as he talked and finally mother broke in with:

"'Yes, and he shook hands with us!'

"Proudly she told us that he 'was a very fine man.'

"Little did they dream that their own son, sitting right at the table, was one day going to take the crown from the man they so admired. That day was only six short years away."

Dad Corbett at that dinner table would have considered it a sacrilege had any one dared to breathe the thought that his own slim James eventually would crush his idol.

GENTLEMAN JIM CORBETT AND WIFE, VERA . . . . . FROM A PICTURE TAKEN IN 1922

Term 'Champion' Has Another Meaning To His Widow

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

BAYSIDE, N. Y., Feb. 20.—Mrs. James J. Corbett mourns for a man who "was a sweetheart in his sixties just as he was 38 years ago"—her man.

The pretty gray-haired widow of the former heavyweight boxing champion of the world received her husband's many friends in the little red-shingled house here where the Corbetts lived most of their married life.

Although visibly shaken at his death on Saturday, she listened quietly to their tributes to Gentleman Jim Corbett, heard over and over the words of praise of his pugilistic prowess, his personality, his strength.

What she said was:

"I never heard him say anything unkind about anyone in all the years I knew him."

Or:

He was always lovable and sweet, tender and thoughtful toward me."

For this fighting pompadour Jim Corbett, of whom they spoke so glowingly, this champion of champions before whom the great John L. Sullivan went down, was not Vera Corbett's Jim.

She married him 38 years ago, at the peak of his career, because he was sincere, sentimental, thoughtful, cheerful. That he was a "champion" meant nothing then, meant even less later on.

He was a good husband. Every morning he brought her breakfast in bed. Almost every evening he took her to the movies. He raved about her beauty to everyone. He praised her cooking, especially his favorite cake—jelly cake—which she made every day.

Said Vera Corbett:

"Even in this last illness, when he was so seriously sick, he was far more interested in trying to cheer me up than he was in himself."

Everyone calls her Vera, although her name was Jessie Taylor before she met Gentleman Jim. Jim liked the name Vera, so he changed her first name as well as her last. She has not thought of herself as anything but Vera Corbett for 38 years.

As much her sweetheart in his 60s as when they were married 38 years ago—that was the tribute of Mrs. James J. Corbett as her "always champion" went to his final resting place today. Above is her favorite picture of Pompadour Jim and Gentleman Jim, the dandy, in his heyday, with which she fell in love before she even met him. These are International News Photo Service pictures.

CURRY SOCCER TEAM LOSES TO SLAVIAS

By TOM BIRKS

The Cleveland Slavias, crack professional soccer team, advanced to the western semi-final round in the national open challenge cup competition yesterday afternoon at Greenlee Field, defeating Curry, of the Keystone League, 3 to 1, before a crowd of 5,000.

It was another case of too much class and the Buckeyes had the stuff necessary to put on a spurt towards the close of the game and carve out a well-earned victory.

At the intermission, the score was tied, each team having found the net once, and the crowd figured that the locals had a good chance to win the decision.

Two minutes after the start, Curry scored, but Donnelli was offside and Referee O'Conner rightly ruled the goal out.

SLAVIAS SCORE FIRST

It was a brilliant effort on the part of Buff Donnelli that tied up the game. Buff sent the ball out to Cingel. Goalie Sommers pushed the ball out, but Donnelli's terrific shot hit the underside of the cross bar and went into the net.

Curry went to the attack in the second half but it became evident that the Slavias had changed their style of play. The forwards were not making any effort to run the ball in the heavy mud, and fast passes soon had the Curry defense in a tangle.

DUNN'S GOAL WINS

Griffith got away in the clear on the left and his parting shot hit the Curry goal post. Dunn fastened on the ball, and like a flash it was in the net. That was the end of Curry. A little later, Ralph Caraffi beat his man and McManus scored the third goal.

Cleveland played great soccer in the second half, although the honors in the first half were Curry's by a mile.

Griffith was the outstanding player of a fairly good front line, but it was the Slavia halfbacks that won the game.

For Curry, Cyle was great, Susco played a hard game, and Mike Bookie and Buff Donnelli stood out in the line. The lack of outside wing players lost the game for Curry. The lineup:

Summers	G	Stanko
Thompson	R. B.	Cyle
Novar	L. B.	F. Cimmeroli
Rogers	R. H.	Kirk
Wier	C. H.	Powell
Jackson	L. H.	Susco
Griffith	O. R.	Cingle
G. Caraffi	I. R.	Bookie
McManus	C.	Donnelli
Dunn	I. L.	N. Cimmeroli
R. Caraffi	O. L.	Molly

ANDERSONS VICTORS

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—The St. Louis Andersons turned back the Detroit Sons of Malta, 7 to 1, here yesterday in a second round cup game for the national title in professional soccer, after police had broken up a free-for-all fight in the second half.

Two other fights between players also enlivened the game.

Two southpaw middleweight blasters—the colorful Alabama Kid, Dover (O.) Negro, and Frankie O'Brien, of Hartford, Conn., and Chicago, do their dynamiting against each other in the 10-round main bout in Motor Square Garden tonight.

Alabama never has lost a fight here. He came into local prominence when he technically knocked out Jimmy Belmont at Dover months ago and has fought here several times since, only one of his opponents having gone the limit.

As against this record O'Brien has knocked out six of his last seven opponents, and we have the word of his part-manager, James (Red) Mason, an authority, that he is going somewhere.

Mason was to be in O'Brien's corner tonight, but his sister, long ailing, died in Chicago yesterday, and he had to cancel his plans.

Joe Marcus, of Braddock, meets Maxie Strub, elongated Erieite, in the eight-round semi-final; Eddie Hebner, of Clairton, and Ray Collins, of Erie, are in the second bout, and Clair Repole, of Steubenville, boxes Tony Leone, of Dover, O., in the six-round opener, scheduled to get under way promptly at 8:30 o'clock.

Between Rounds

Matchmaker Diamond Lou Raymond, of the Arena, on the North Side, is asking the boxing fans to select the principals in his six-round opening bout next Friday night. He wants to give them a "natural." His card already is a heavy one, with three 10-round battles topping it off. He has Paulie Walker, of New York, against Tiger Joe Randall in the windup, Jack Pallat, of Cleveland, against Frank Novak, in the semi-final and Morrie Sherman, of Detroit, against Billy Holt in the first distance affair. He believes in giving the fans long measure for their money in these days, and the wisdom of his policy should assert itself.

An interesting little rivalry is going on in the Zivic family between the brothers Eddie and Fritzie as to which shall go farthest in upholding the ring success traditions of Brothers Jack and Pete. Right now, Eddie looks to be the better prospect of the pair, but Fritzie is determined to step out in front. He meets Charley Blotzevich in the six-round semi-final to the Joe Ruzzuzzoni-Anson Green encagement at the Moose Temple, Wednesday night.

John Manno has been matched with Billy Georges, Pete Barry with Steve Catella and Joe Clark with Harry Krause for three of the bouts in the amateur boxing show to be held by the Pastorious A. C. in Lithuanian Hall, McKees Rocks, tomorrow night.

The 40 and 8 Club of Post No. 377, American Legion, will hold an amateur boxing show in the Capitol Theater Building, California, Pa., Thursday night. John A. Bumbera is in charge of the program.

SCHAAF DEATH FLU RESULT

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Inflamation of the brain, probably due to an attack of influenza, was the primary cause of the death of Ernie Schaaf, in the opinion of Dr. Charles Norris, chief medical examiner for New York City.

Microscopic examination of the brain, Dr. Norris said in a final report yesterday, revealed the Boston heavyweight was suffering from inflamation of the brain before he entered the ring to face Primo Carnera in a 15-round bout in Madison Square Garden February 10. Schaaf was knocked down in the thirteenth round by a left jab to the nose, collapsed and died in Polyclinic Hospital last Tuesday after an operation to relieve pressure on the brain.

Dr. Norris said that Schaaf's general condition interferred with his boxing skill so that he was less able to avoid blows.

Schaaf had suffered an attack of influenza about three weeks before the bout and this, Dr. Norris said, could be charged with causing the inflamation "with a reasonable degree of probability."

Wind, Waves Again Thwart Campbell

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—The winds and waves have conspired to keep Sir Malcolm Campbell from trying to break the land speed record he holds until tomorrow at the earliest.

West winds sent waves rolling over the beach course here during the week-end, and chopped and softened the sand so a run was impossible. Campbell hoped for a north or northeast wind today to bring waves that will iron out the wrinkles in the beach.

Sister of Mason To Be Buried Here

Solemn high mass will be celebrated in Sacred Heart Church at 10 a. m., Wednesday for Miss Alice S. Mason, sister of James M. Mason, veteran boxing manager, who died in Chicago yesterday after a lingering illness.

Mason will arrive in Pittsburgh with the body tomorrow morning and services will be held in the Joseph Voltz funeral parlors, in the East End, at 9:30 Wednesday. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetary.

Hack Uninjured In 'Plane Spill

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Stanley Hack, youthful third baseman of the Chicago Cubs, and amateur aviator, escaped without injury when his plane nosed over as he landed it here yesterday. Two passengers flying with him also were unhurt.

Hack bought his plane several weeks ago, and announced he would fly from his home here to the Cubs' training camp at Catalina when it opens next week.

Knapp Announces International Umps

The staff will include William B. Carpenter, William J. (Barry) McCormick, George L. (Tiny) Parker, W. Jack Carroll, and Louis D. Jorda, all of whom served last season; Richard F. Nallin, J. (Cal) Hubbard and Richard F. (Dick) Hoblitzell.

Nallin recently was let out by the American League. Hubbard served in the Western League, and Hoblitzell in the Piedmont League last year.

TEAMS ENTER LEAGUES

Swissvale, Iroquois, Verona, Edgewood, Springdale, Turtle Creek and Homestead Aces were admitted to the Greater Pittsburgh League and Frick Park, Millvale, Mellon-Stewart, Sturgeon, Lincoln, Forest Hills, Jack Potts, Pitcairn, Juliano and Universal were admitted to the County League at baseball meetings held yesterday.

FAVORED GOLF TEAMS BOW

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Upsets started early in the international four-ball golf tournament as favorite teams were eliminated in the first 36-hole round.

Outstanding among those to pass out of the drive for $2,600 prize money yesterday were Willie MacFarlane, of Tuckahoe, N. Y., and Wiffy Cox, of Brooklyn, who could not match the spectacular shooting of Mike Turnesa, of New York, and Tony Manero, of Greenwich, Conn., and were defeated, 3 and 2.

Another team liked by the gallery was eliminated when Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J., leading money winner of 1933, and Frank Walsh, of Chicago, were beaten by Henry Ciuci, of Fresh Meadow, N. Y., and John Revolta, of Menominee, Mich., 6 and 4.

Dartmouth Wins Winter Sport Meet

LUCERNE, Que., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—For the second year in succession, Dartmouth College won the team championship of the International Intercollegiate Winter Sports Union here yesterday. The Hanover, N. H., representatives piled up a total of 30 points in the three-day test against 26 for McGill and 22 for the University of New Hampshire.

Kitty Klein, Skate Champ, Hurt in Fall

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Kitty Klein, of Buffalo, N. Y., American women's outdoor skating champion, must wait until next year to engage in competition, following an injury suffered in the western indoor championships Saturday night.

Miss Klein fell during the last lap of the three-quarter mile race, and an examination yesterday revealed a chipping fracture of the femur, the large bone in the thigh. Dr. M. S. Corbett who attended her said only rest would heal the injury, a rather uncommon one.

BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

HALF-TON TRUCK ATTRACTING INTEREST

The new half-ton International D-1 truck is creating widespread interest among merchants, manufacturers and store owners in the territory covered by the Pittsburgh branch of the International Harvester Company, according to the local branch manager.

The addition of this light truck to the International line makes it possible for the organization to meet any trasportation requirement.

The chassis of the new truck, intended to meet all small fast delivery and service needs, has a wheel base of 113 inches and is powered by a six cylinder engine of modern high compression design. The motor develops 70 horsepower at 3,400 revolutions per minute.

OFFERS TWO TYPES

Two types of bodies are available in the new model. One is a sedan panel body and the other an all steel pick-up body with coupe type cab.

The loading compartment of the panel body is 72 inches long, 46¾ inches wide and 47 inches high. The panel body is especially adapted for small, fast deliveries by laundries, bakeries, dry cleaners, florists, candy and other small commodity manufacturers, meat markets, groceries and package delivery concerns.

ADAPTED FOR FLEETS

The pick-up body, which has a loading space 66 inches long, 46¾ inches wide, with side panels 11 inches high and six-inch flare boards, is particularly adapted as a service truck for department stores, wholesale dealers, grocers and manufactures who maintain fleets of trucks.

Question to Police Lands Man in Jail

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(INS.)—Thomas Ghosen, 25, had heard that the police were looking for him. He went to the police station and inquired. He was wanted for petty larceny, police told him and Ghosen is now wondering why he bothered to ask.

Man Gets Lingeries For Winning Race

CLARINDA, Ia.—When a women's egg race was being staged here, officials discovered they needed more competitors. They called upon the men. C. R. Anderson was one of the volunteers. He won the race. Anderson's prize was silk lingerie.

New President

HARRY R. DONNALLY

Mr. Donnally, the new president of the Iron and Glass Savings Bank of Birmingham (Pittsburgh). He entered the bank's employ in 1896, became cashier in 1920, director in 1929.

FARRELL URGES WORLD TRADE

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—James A. Farrell, former president of the United States Steel Corporation, today declared that revival of American international trade is a basic condition necessary for industrial recovery.

Farrell, now chairman of the National Foreign Trade Council, made his statement in issuing the call for the twentieth national foreign trade convention to be held in Pittsburgh April 26 to 28, inclusive. He said:

"American foreign traders have found in these years of trial and adversity that the level of our own prosperity bears a definite relation to the level reached in other countries. The revival of our international commerce, therefore, is one of the foundations on which our recovery must be built. The rate of decline both in our exports and our imports has steadily diminished during the latter half of 1932. This is a tangible sign indicating that the world-wide depression has spent its force, and that the reconstruction process may well coincide with the success Americans can obtain in overcoming our own difficulties."

BUY AMERICAN PRIZES ARE AWARDED

Elmo Jurkat, Cedarville (O.) student at the Art Institute of Pittsburgh, Stanwix street, won first prize as well as the popular award in the poster contest recently sponsored by the United States Lines. These prizes were a trip to New York with two weeks' expenses and $10. The latter was awarded as a result of the votes cast by 370 visitors to the exhibition in Union Trust Building.

The second prize, $10, was won by Don Harper, of Coraopolis; the third, $5, was awarded to Leroy Baird, of the East End. They also are students in the commercial art classes of the Art Institute of Pittsburgh.

The posters were graphic expressions of the "Buy American" idea. Each artist emphasized the idea of using American ships when traveling and the prizes were decided upon by Vincent Paul, manager of the United States Lines foreign department; Leroy Beet, president of Sterling Press, and John Rawsthorne, president of Graphic Studios.

The majority of the posters made by Art Institute students were sent to New York at the request of the steamship company, for consideration for reproduction in national advertising.

The prize winners and a group of their classmates will visit New York with Willis Shook, director of the school, and instructor of the commercial art classes. Mr. Shook has arranged for permission to visit the treasures in the Pierpont Morgan library, the Frick collection of pictures—not open to the public—and several studios of well-known artists.

RAIL CHART IS COMPLETED

Included in the information shown on the chart are the following facts:

Inter-relation of all voting stocks showing the per cent holdings of all classes along with the net per cent total of voting control. The total outstanding capitalization. An index showing the assignment of each line under the Interstate Commerce Commission consolidation plan.

The earnings on common and preferred stocks and the ratio of fixed charges to earnings for the past four years. The total average miles operated. The average funded debt per mile of road. The total Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans and the amounts repaid. The operating ratio.

'Art' on Dollar Jails New Yorker

Warm Weather Puts Farmers Behind Plow

TIONESTA, Pa., Jan. 31.—Unusually warm weather for January has led to plowing by a number of farmers along the Allegheny highway. Similar reports have come from sections of Warren, Crawford and Venango counties.

SCHOOL AWARDS PRIZES

The annual award of the dean's prizes by the faculty at Pittsburgh School of Accountancy is unique this year inasmuch as it is the first occasion on record of the winning of one of the awards by a girl.

Miss Edith Bardella, of the senior class, 5214 Beeler street, is the pioneer in this respect, having achieved 87 per cent as the average of her semester final examination grades, thus beating the showing of any of her classmates.

Awards of a similar nature, comprising a scholarship for an entire semester, were also made to the following students: Roy Burson, 97½ per cent, freshman; Robert Harper, 96 per cent, sophomore; and Herbert Boch, 96 per cent, junior. Of these, Mr. Harper is from Connellsville, the others being Pittsburghers.

CHINESE URGES REVISED BIBLE

SHANGHAI.—(INS.)—If the higher classes of China are to become interested in Christianity it will be necessary to revise existing translations of the Holy Scriptures. In making this assertion before the Christian Literary Society, Gen. Chang Chih-chiang quoted a Chinese proverb that what is not well written is not worth reading. Literary style is as essential as basic truth, he declared.

The General formerly served under Feng Yu-hsiang and was converted to Christianity along with him when the religious wave struck the Chinese army several years ago. He described his conversion which has also been told in a book published by the Society. He told how the publications of the Society aided and guided him to the Christian faith and therefore he felt himself in position to give advice on the matter of propagating the faith in China.

He urged the Society to capture the interest of the youth of China in a vivid appeal through the medium of illustrations which he thought far more efficient than the written or spoken word.

R. F. C. ADVANCES IN YEAR OVER 1¾ BILLION

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Cash advances by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in the year of its existence have totaled $1,788,666,009, with repayments $347,237,110, it was announced today.

Loans to banks, insurance companies and other financial institutions amounted to $1,502,786,544. For relief purposes, the corporation advanced $144,744,097. A total of $64,204,503 was loaned through the Secretary of Agriculture for crop operations. For self-liquidating projects, the corporation loaned $18,497,000.

BANKS GET $894,000,000

Banks up to January 31 had been advanced $894,047,350 and had repaid $278,743,498. The corporation authorized loans of $1,005,837,784, of which $71,062,376 had been withdrawn or canceled, while $40,728,057 remained to the credit of the borrowers. Total loans authorized for all financial institutions amounted to $1,707,733,473, of which $88,382,643 had been withdrawn and $116,564,284 remained to the credit of the borrowers.

Loans of $155,809,134 have been authorized for self-liquidating projects. Many of the loans were contingent upon the performance of the borrowers. Thirty-nine states and two territories to February 15 had been authorized advances of $169,458,948.

B. & O. BIG BORROWER

The corporation sold $500,000,000 of its capital stock to the Treasury and borrowed an additional $895,000,000 on notes. It has so far paid the Treasury $7,608,904 in interest. An additional $6,976,027 had accrued on January 31 but was not then payable. The R. F. C. notes issued thus far bear 3½ per cent interest.

Baltimore and Ohio, $67,125,000; Chicago and Northwestern, $20,104,000; Pennsylvania, $29,500,000; New York Central, $20,499,000; Missouri Pacific, $20,100,000 and the New York, Chicago and St. Louis, $18,200,000.

Chicago Beer Now 20 Cents a Stein

CHICAGO.—Following a meeting of Capone syndicate executives, beer sold in Chicago speakeasies today for 20 cents a stein—a reduction of 20 per cent from the long-established price of a quarter. Word was passed along that the syndicate cut the wholesale price from $55 a barrel to $45 by reducing production costs. It was estimated that the price of $55 per barrel took 200 or more gang "rides" to maintain.

MICHIGAN BANK CRISIS SHOWS REFORM NEED

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Business continues to move sidewise on a plateau in a greatly subnormal zone.

The rigors of deflation to the bitter end were emphasized again last week in the Michigan bank holiday. The incident apparently resulted from the bad banking practice of investing deposits in frozen real estate mortgages to an inordinate extent, instead of in ordinary self-liquidating commercial loans.

If there are insufficient satisfactory commercial loans, then perhaps there are too many banks.

Mr. Rukeyser

If changes in business habits decrease the amount of eligible bank paper then there is clear evidence of overequipment of the country with commercial banks. The Detroit incident points to the need of thoroughgoing improvement in banking technique, such as is contemplated in the Glass bill, which passed the Senate and which is now pending before the House.

The week also saw the report of the National Transportation Committee, which held out hope for the carriers as soon as there is a pickup in traffic. It indicted railroad management for old fogyism, and emphasized a number of desirable reforms in methods.

The Miami crank shooting, though the most spectacular event of the week, had no economic significance. The event, however, did serve to strengthen popular support for the President-elect. Now Wall street is hoping for some stimulus as the new deal administration gets its program under way.

Shoe Trade Shows Drop in Germany

BERLIN—(INS.)—Unemployment in the German boot and shoe industry showed a slight decline at the close of November. At the end of the month 24.8 per cent of the leather trade union members were unemployed as compared with 27.7 per cent at the close of October and 2 per cent at the end of September.

Argentine Cotton Exports Higher

BUENOS AIRES.—(INS.)—Argentina exported more cotton in 1932 than in 1931. Preliminary figures show that total exports of raw cotton in the first 11 months of 1932 amounted to 27,858 metric tons compared with 24,597 tons for the corresponding period in 1931, an increase of 13 per cent.

Conference Board Says Industry Slumped During Month

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

BUSINESS DECLINED during January. This conclusion has been reached by the conference of statisticians in industry conducted under the auspices of the National Industrial Conference Board. After allowing for seasonal factors and for the type of activity which lost ground, the board found a net loss rather than a net gain for the month. The report says:

"General business conditions declined in January from the prevailing level of the previous four months. Although there was an increase in the production of automobiles and trucks, a gain in steel output, and a slight upturn in building and engineering construction, the downward movements in the primary distribution of basic commodities and the slackening in retail trade were large enough to register a net aggregate downward movement in general business activity. Falling commodity prices and shrinking employment continued to manifest themselves during the month."

The report represents the written opinions of representatives of more than 10,000 industrial firms, based on their compilations of statistics for January. The results of the compilations are made public monthly at the earliest possible time.

* * *

Gain In Output Is Smaller Than Normal

IN DISCUSSING the trend of industrial activity, the report says:

"Productive activity increased by a considerable amount during the month, but the increase was less than has been observed between December and January in recent years. This net gain, however, was not shared by all basic industries, and was a resultant of diverse movements. Automobile production increased in January, following an unusual gain in November, and conformed to a new but as yet indefinite seasonal pattern. Building construction moved upward slightly, instead of seasonally downward by a substantial amount.

"Steel production increased by an amount that was greater than was expected at this time of the year. Pig iron production moved upward in approximately seasonal fashion. Bituminous coal production fell off in January, moving counter to the expected seasonal gain of recent years. Electric power output declined visibly, though an increase was observed between December and January in the years 1925 to 1929, inclusive. Textile activity during the month increased by a less than seasonal amount over its level during December."

Freight Traffic Records Decline

Total shipments of commodities by rail freight in January, in declining under the level of December, moved in a direction opposite to the usual seasonal tendency, according to the report. Averaging 477,600 cars per week, loadings of all commodities of rail freight fell 3.2 per cent under the December weekly average. The seasonal movement in pre-depression years was an increase of 4.3 per cent. Shipments of merchandise and miscellaneous commodities showed an increase of slightly under 1 per cent between December and January, while the seasonal movement was an increase of 1.5 per cent.

Department store sales declined in dollar values in January by an amount greater than seasonal under the total for December. The decline of 56 per cent between the two months did not compare well with the normally seasonal shrinkage in trade of 50 per cent observed in pre-depression years. This decline, following a less than normally seasonal holiday upturn in December, brought the dollar value of department store trade to a level of 24 per cent under what it wa in January, 1932. A major part of the unfavorable comparison in the dollar value of sales in January, as related to their level of a year ago, is, nevertheless, due to a declining commodity prices.

STOCKS FIRM AFTER EARLY WEAKNESS

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—The stock market was a bit wobbly at the start of the new week today, but regained its composure as the session wore on.

With commodity markets acting well, pressure against the dollar lifted in the foreign exchange markets, and week-end news of banking and business of a reassuring character, selling of stocks soon dwindled, and by early afternoon, losses of fractions to more than 3 points were slightly reduced.

The week's dividend developments started off well with du Pont ordering its regular quarterly of 50 cents, which had been foreshadowed by General Motors recent regular. American Can evidently declined in response to its 1932 earnings report showing net equivalent to $3.26 a share, which is somewhat under the $4 annual dividend rate. Consolidated Gas reported 1932 net of $4.07 a share, or slightly above the $4 annual dividend, but off substantially from the previous year, in which this big power distributor earned $4.94 a share. Important dividends slated for action tomorrow are Chespeake and Ohio and Union Carbide; a regular payment on the former regarded in Wall street as assured, while there is some uncertainty about Union Carbide.

Wall street was keenly interested in the House's vote on the repeal resolution, following its acceptance in the Senate. The return of Ambassador from London, and his scheduled conference with President-elect Roosevelt in New York also attracted attention. It was noted that the Bank of England bought about $18,000,000 in gold, restoring its reserves of the metal to the level before it paid its December 15 debt installment. The January foreign trade figures for the United States showed the third successive monthly decline. The total of $120,000,000 compared with $153,000,000 reached in October, in the autumn pickup. Imports in January were off a little. Instability of foreign exchanges is regarded as one of the chief deterrents to foreign trade, and prominent bankers consider settlement of the nexed debt problem as vital.

The petroleum outlook was a little befogged by a substantial increase in crude output in the last half of last week in Californit, threatening the price structure there. Week-end surveys, however, brought predictions of a 25-cent-a-barrel increase in crude in the Southwest. Phillips Petroleum issued its annual statement, showing marked improvement resulting chiefly from the better price structure in 1932. The company cleared 18 cents per common share, against a substantial deficit in 1931.

SENATE ACTION AIDS COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Cotton futures opened very steady, 8@12 higher on active buying on the passage by the Senate of the Smith bill and on higher Liverpool cables. March, 6.12; May, 6.27; July, 6.40; October, 6.59; December, 6.71; January, 6.77.

March sold up to 6.11 and July to 6.41, or 10 to 12 points net higher; but the advance was checked at these figures by realizing and southern selling. Prices sagged a few points later with the volume of business tapering off, but the market at the end of the first half hour was holding steady at net advances of about 5 to 7 points.

Realizing continued later in the morning with prices working off gradually to 6.06 for March and 6.32 for July, or within 1 to 3 points of Saturday's close. The dips, however, attracted a little more buying through commission houses and the midday market was steady at net gains of 3 to 5 points.

BULLS NOW TRY TO STAVE OFF DECLINE

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—From early December to early February the stock market was trying to go up. The "sponsors" were trying to maintain an advance based chiefly on hopes. During the past week or so, however, it seems that the picture has changed and that the effort has been to prevent a decline—which is a very different attitude.

Looking back, we see that the September collapse of the rally was checked in October. Then, after the election had been digested, came an attempt in early December to resume the upward trend.

This culminated definitely on January 11. Since then the bull operators have been fighting an essentially rear guard action. But the trend has been gradually and distinctly a downward one.

FEW SMALL TRADERS

It seems that the only thing which keeps the market up is the absence of any wave of selling pressure such as easily develops when a speculative public following exists. There is now no mass of little margin traders to "shake out."

Yet, at the same time, it is apparent that the sponsors find it necessary to "support" the market. This was obvious on Wednesday and Thursday in the case of such leaders as Telephone. The market is clearly artificial. I think that "they" are afraid to let it have normal reactions because of the possibility that a new and final phase of liquidation might be touched off.

ODD-LOT SELLING

One possibility is suggested by the amount of odd-lot selling that has appeared of late. Small holders are asking if they should sell out now and take the big paper losses most of them have.

As dividends are cut or omitted, and loss of earning from business or salaries eats into savings, thousands are asking if they can or if they should hang on.

When the market rallies, they wonder if they should not "average down" by buying a few share more. Thousands have done this. But when the market reacts, they feel differently.

Then there is the probability that sizeable "semi-investment" purchases were made in December and January on the "investment counsel" move. Some "pools" must have become a little embarrassed. Some "support stock," too, is overhanging.

RALLY BLOCKED

My impression is that there is plenty of stock for sale a little above the market, which will prevent much of a rally. And, although we do not want to see it, we would be unwise to shut our eyes to the possibility of a fairly pronounced reaction on considerable volume.

Certainly it is hard to find reasons for a sustained upward move just now. The arguments for a rally are:

1—A large short interest.

FINAL READJUSTMENT

Some time in the rather distant future, after ratification by enough states, repeal will help the government's revenue and the prices of certain grains. Some day, the nations of the world will return to peaceful ways and sound economic policies. Maybe the time will come when we find our biggest men "available" for Cabinet positions.

Meanwhile business and financial affairs are drawing nearer to a final readjustment, out of which will come the recovery from this awful post-war atonement. We can look forward to that with hope and confidence based on faith in human nature and in our well-tried political institutions.

Soft Coal Output Takes Sharp Jump

The Bureau of Mines today estimated the state's output for the week at 1,422,000 tons as compared with 1,417,000 tons the previous six-day period.

During the corresponding week last year, Pennsylvania accounted for 1,472,000 tons. The average weekly output of the state in February, 1929, was 3,087,000 tons.

National bituminous production took a 30.9 per cent jump the week ended February 11, rising from 5,850,000 to 7,660,000 tons.

Westinghouse Radio Dividend in Mails

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company has mailed to its stockholders the dividend declared on January 11, consisting of ½ share of common stock of Radio Corporation of America for each share of preferred stock and common stock of Westinghouse.

The General Electric distribution of one Radio for six General Electric was also sent today.

Liverpool Wheat Market.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 20.—Te market was dull ¼d to ½d lower, opened ⅝d to ½d c, and at 12.15 p. m. was down ½d to ¾d. The market was unchanged to ¼d lower at 2:15.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Special influences, both domestic and foreign, continued to cast shadows over the bond market today and prices drifted irregularly lower in rather quiet trading. United States government loans were under considerable pressure while Japanese and German obligations again recorded new losses.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (000 omitted in sales column; United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

SENATOR'S SON SHOOTS TWO

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Mrs. Barbara Ritchie Oliver, 26, was seriously wounded last night in what police said was a flare-up of the feud between the Ritchie and Oliver families, of Fairfax County, Va.

Her husband, Lewis Oliver, son of the late State Senator Walter T. Oliver, was held in the Fairfax County Jail. Police say he broke up a bridge party at the Ritchie home, shooting his estranged wife and Wilmer Holbrook, 27, also of Fairfax.

A shotgun charge was fired into Mrs. Oliver's face and chest. Her condition is critical. Holbrook was shot in the leg.

Police say the ill-feeling between the families began with the marriage of Barbara Ritchie and Lewis Oliver. Each now is seeking the custody of their three-month-old baby.

Two months ago Senator Oliver was fatally injured in a scuffle with Lewis Ritchie, brother of Barbara. Ritchie was charged with felonious homicide, but the grand jury did not hold him.

Lewis Oliver was arrested in Baltimore last November on charges of assault brought against him while his wife was living there.

TEAR GAS ROUTS MILK STRIKERS

WAUKESHA, Wis., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Tear gas bombs thrown by Waukesha County sheriff's deputies today routed milk strike pickets at New Butler. Several officers and strikers were injured in a fight around a Milwaukee-bound milk truck.

Henry Braatz, 25, farmer, of Brookfield, was arrested. Officers charged he pummelled Deputy John Morris.

Fifty farmers stopped a truck by stretching a rope across the highway. They were dumping the milk when a squad of deputies arrived. The pickets brushed aside the officers when they tried to interfere. The deputies then released the tear gas and the farmers scattered.

Throng Sees 3 Boys Drown, One Saved

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Three of four boys who plunged through thawing ice on the Bronx River near the Bronx zoo entrance yesterday, drowned while hundreds of men, women and children looked on helplessly.

The fourth boy clung to the ice until dragged out by an unidentified rescuer. Police recovered the bodies of Ralph Mazzaca, 12; Frank Gianona, 10, and Tony Faro, 10. James Borello, 14, was rescued.

Second Boy's Body Taken From River

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Two hundred men are back at their daily tasks today after spending a week searching for the bodies of two small boys in Stonycreek River. Yesterday they found the body of Edward Crissey, 9, near the point where he and his brother drowned the previous Sunday after the ice broke with them.

The body of Thomas, 11, was found Wednesday.

MOROS SLAY 8 IN TAX PROTEST

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Two crazed Moros killed eight persons in a mad rampage on the island of Tawi Tawi in the southern Philippines before they themselves were shot down, advices received here today said. Police attributed the outbreak to an attempt to collect taxes.

The mad men killed a government clerk and a policeman in the town of Batubatu Saturday night. After the double murder they fled to the hills, returning to town Sunday and butchering three women, a child and two other persons.

Terrorized townspeople locked themselves in their houses and sought other refuge until the killers were shot down by local police.

Andrew Carnegie's Life Story

24 hours to think things over.

On the following morning Mr. Singer appeared in Carnegie's office.

"Did you really mean what you said yesterday?" he asked. "Would you take me in as a partner?"

"Of course I would," said Carnegie, putting out his hand. "Shake, Pard!"

Mr. Singer accepted the offer and received Carnegie stock. The $50,000 he had invested in the Homestead mill brought him $8,000,000 in 15 years.

A new company, "Carnegie, Phipps & Co., was organized to handle Homestead. The works were reconstructed by Carnegie engineers and, in less than two years had earned sufficient dividends to pay the entire purchase price. The great Homestead mill thus became a Carnegie principality practically without the outlay of a dollar in capital.

Charles M. Schwab

With the annexation of Homestead a new figure begins to assume definite form on the Carnegie canvas. Charles M. Schwab makes his appearance almost simultaneously with Henry Clay Frick.

One man alone, at this epochal date, had any keen realization of Schwab's existence. That was the penetrating and appreciative Bill Jones. "Charlie" was the captain's discovery. He had unearthed the youngster in Spiegelmire's general store in Braddock, a place much frequented by Capt. Bill, whose appetite for Pittsburgh "stogies" was insatiable. Here Jones was invariably waited upon by a quickly-stepping youth whose competence in attending to customers, agility in weighing sugar and slicing cheese, and lightning skill in making change had aroused a professional interest.

One day in a conversational pause—for the friendship between himself and his most distinguished patron had reached the point of frequent chats—Schwab screwed up his courage and broached the subject that had been occupying his dreams for a long time.

"Capt. Jones," he said, "can't you give me a job in the mill?"

"Why, yes, Charlie," the captain replied. "I think I can. What can you do?"

"Anything."

"Capt. Jones, I can drive anything."

The captain gave the suppliant a card admitting him to the sacred precincts. His job was that of driving stakes and the wages were a dollar a day.

Charm of Loretto

When "Charlie" Schwab replied that he could "drive anything," he was probably indulging in autobiography; the answer was perhaps a humorous reference to the day, not far back, when he navigated the stagecoach from his own village of Loretto to Cresson. Loretto was too insignificant a place for a railroad station; the Schwab stagecoach, which carried passengers, freight and mail, furnished its only connection with the outside world. Yet the little community had a charm and a quality of its own. Like its exotic name, it was really a piece of medieval Europe deposited in the Allegheny Mountains. The town had been founded in the late eighteenth century by Father Demetrius Gallitzin, a son of that Princess Gallitzin who had been Goethe's friend and a famous figure in the literary circles of the time. It was a community exclusively Catholic—it was almost a Catholic retreat; hardly one of its 300 souls belonged to any other church, and all its buildings reflected the same spiritual allegiance. The village consisted of a single shaded street, lying on one of the loftiest hills of the Allegheny region.

The reports exacted by the senior partner were the torment of Capt. Jones' life. He could make more steel and better steel than any man in America, but the exhibition of his achievements in tabular form was a task beyond his powers. Consequently the discovery that "Charlie" could do this quickly came as a welcome relief. One day, under the captain's instructions, Schwab appeared before Carnegie, report in hand. The older man bent over it for a considerable time and then spoke.

"The captain says you know all about the works," said Carnegie. "What is your name?"

"Charles M. Schwab."

"Well, Charlie," Carnegie answered, "just tell me how we are getting on." Carnegie settled down in his chair, apparently prepared for an authoritative analysis. He got it. Schwab gave a detailed account of conditions and answered rapidly a hundred rapid questions. Carnegie was astonished. All the time he kept searching the young man's lineaments, which had evidently started elusive strains in his memory.

"Have we ever met before, Charlie?" he asked.

"Yes, Mr. Carnegie, I used to hold your horses at Cresson."

From that moment Schwab became one of Carnegie's "boys"—ultimately the closest to him of a brilliant gathering. On his returns to Pittsburgh almost his first move was to summon "Charlie" for a cross-examination. His affection and admiration grew with time. "Mr. Schwab," Carnegie said, years afterward, when he had himself retired from business, "is a genius. I have never met his equal, and when he had me as a partner we were a great team."

Other associates, perhaps less known to general fame, but still vital forces in upbuilding the Carnegie company, now began to enter the privileged circle. Henry W. Borntraeger, a German whose picturesque but expressive dialect provided Carnegie with several of his most delicious stories, was one of the first of the rank and file to qualify for admission. The original "Iron Clad," of 1887, reveals three men who subsequently became presidents or chairmen—William L. Abbott, John Walker and J. G. A. Leishman. Another partner takes one back to Carnegie's childhood in Scotland and to the grocery shop on the High street in Dunfermline. George Lauder, son of "Uncle" Lauder, and Carnegie's cousin, the 'Doddie" of that early period, now became a part of "Carnegie Brothers."

First Skyscraper

The coming of the skyscraper was an important factor in Carnegie's fortune. In the eighties the demand for steel rails diminished, chiefly because the fervent building of railroads that had marked the 20 years preceding 1885 began to slacken. The revelation of an entirely unexpected new outlet for steel products in construction thus further reinforced his position. The Homestead works, originally built for rolling rails, was transformed into a plant for fabricating other forms rapidly growing in demand; above all, for beams and girders needed by a new architectural epoch. The youthful Charles M. Schwab, placed at its head, began to roll immense quantities of structural shapes—to perform the same services for the modern American city that his mentor, Capt. Jones, had performed for American railroads. The very first skyscraper—the Home Insurance Building in Chicago—was, in its essential iron and steel, manufactured in the Homestead mill. The contract originally called for iron. When the sixth floor was reached, Mr. Jenney, the architect, received a letter from Carnegie, Phipps & Co., suggesting that the remaining stories be made of steel. The advice was adopted and so it stands today. For this pioneer, started in May, 1884, and finished in the fall of 1885, is still in existence and as sturdy at the present time as when it was opened.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Ann Helfgott, "official reporter" of the Enright Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, told Manager Frank Roberts that she would like to address the members who were present at the meeting Saturday. Manager Roberts, always willing to co-operate with his "official family," granted her request. Ann had the following to say:

"Boys and girls, in the past few weeks a newcomer has arrived in Pittsburgh and he has started out to do something for the poor. Although he's just a little fellow, he already has many assistants, little fellows like himself. I'm speaking now of "Junior," that real boy who was created by Quin Hall, famous cartoonist of the Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph.

"'Junior' has a definite object in view and when he has enough members he and all the little folks of Pittsburgh will be able to do their share in helping the poor. I know that every youngster present here today would like to help and I'm going to tell you just what you must do.

"Right below the Junior Komic Club news every day is printed 'Junior's' registration blank. Fill out this blank and send it to Quin Hall, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and he will send you a membership card and button. Then watch 'Junior' every day in the Sun-Telegraph and soon he'll tell you just how you can do your share in helping the poor. Don't forget now, mail that registration blank today. You can belong to the Junior Patrol as well as the Junior Komic Club."

Nothing need be added to Ann's message. This does not apply to Enright members only. Every member of the Junior Komic Club is eligible to join. C'mon Kids send in that blank.

A Word for Young Democrats

We're looking forward to that inauguration to see how the Democrats act when on the prod.

So far as they are concerned the incorporated District of Columbia must seem like the lost continent of Atlantis.

The legends grew with the years. As the tale was rehashed and hamburgered the Democrats grew larger in power and smaller in perspective.

The grandpa Democrats entertained the youngsters all right. But when it came to confirmation of these wonderful myths their corroboration had soured in the pan. Their war maps had no pins.

But next month, all that is changed. Enoch Arden returns to his domicile. And he ain't gonna look through the window to see who's there. He's going to bust down the door. And whoever is there is gonna be thrown through the window.

Rip Van Winkle comes back to the land of his fathers after 12 years of dwarfs and skittles.

It was beer and skittles that put Rip to sleep. It was skittles and beer that woke the Democrats up. History repeats itself. Thus achieving for itself the high social prestige of a radish.

Next month the grandpa Democrats can take the junior Democrats by the swaddles. They can direct their tottering little feet up Pennsylvania avenue and point out the buildings of interest which are no longer edifices of curiosity to the Republicans.

Once again the Democrats are home to stay if they can renew the lease in 1936. All things must change. All things must fade. But Democracy has three new coats of paint and a fancy finish.

It will be a great day for each and all. For no longer will the tiny Democrats point out the grandpa Democrats as the star athletes on the Olympic teams of liars.

Senate Keeps Faith By Starting Dry Repeal on Its Way

By rejecting all pernicious amendments, and voting emphatically to submit to the states a simple and unequivocal resolution for the repeal of prohibition, the Senate of the Seventy-second Congress has done much to redeem itself in the public esteem, and to revive the American people's faith in responsive popular government.

The public mandate as expressed at the polls last November was so decisive that the previous action of the "lame duck" House in defeating a straight repeal proposition and the Senate's subsequent inaction of many weeks seemed inexcusable.

But it must now appear that the Senate was unjustly suspected in this particular, at least. It may have been dilatory in acting—yet with that action, when finally it came, no fault may be found.

In that chamber, on December 5 last, the Garner repeal resolution was defeated by six votes.

Both Republican and Democratic leaders in the House predict that the Senate resolution will be carried by the necessary two-thirds vote; and there are reasons enough why this should take place.

In December 70 "lame ducks" voted against repeal. Since then, every member of Congress has heard from the "folks back home." The Senate vote on repeal foretells what that means in the House.

Again, the Senate resolution contains the exact text of the Garner repeal resolution with one inserted clause—a section providing constitutionally for federal protection of dry states. The section in itself is not vital; the Webb-Kenyon act already provides a full measure of statutory protection. But party leaders affirm that this clause will sway enough votes in the lower House to assure adoption of the repeal resolution as passed by the Senate.

In substance, a Republican Senate has enacted a repeal resolution which conforms to the Democratic national platform.

The current House of Representatives is a Democratic House. Consequently the lower House will be keeping faith with its own dominant party, as well as with the nation as a whole, by acting affirmatively without any delay on the Senate resolution.

Moreover, public interest demands promptitude. The resolution calls for ratification by conventions in the states. This method is intended to prevent little minority groups of dry legislators in a few states from blocking the national will. At the same time, the people have already declared themselves on this issue, and they are entitled to exercise their final prerogative at once.

During this year more than 40 state Legislatures are in session. With the repeal resolution submitted at once these Legislatures can immediately provide for their necessary state conventions, which will speed the process of obliterating our great national blunder.

The fact that the resolution formally provides for ratification by the states in seven years should mean nothing.

This country is impatient and determined to be quit of prohibition. It ought not to have to wait seven months.

Education Attacked

The State Teachers' Colleges Are Doing Useful Work, And None Can Be Spared.

Unfortunately there are still persons so myopic that they can see no use in education unless it adds to one's money-making capacity.

Others, while appreciative of the value of education, object to the state's supporting it except, perhaps, in the elementary grades.

The two groups have joined hands in an attack on the State Teachers' Colleges. They propose that some of the 14 teachers' colleges in Pennsylvania shall be closed as an economy measure.

Their principal argument is that there are already more teachers than teaching positions, and it is a waste of money to continue producing teachers.

This argument may be answered by pointing to the phenomenal rate at which the demand for education is increasing. It is increasing at a rate far in excess of the rate at which the population is increasing.

Note these figures: In the first 10 years of the present century the total number of high school graduates in Pittsburgh was 2,333. In the decade 1920-1929 it was 22,263, or 10 times as great. And in the three years 1930, 1931 and 1932, it was 10,190, or almost half as many as in the entire decade immediately preceding.

In view of this rapidly mounting enrollment there will yet be demand for the services of the State Teachers' College graduates now on the waiting list.

But there is another reason, apart from the increasing need for teachers, why the teachers' colleges, all 14 of them, should be continued. They furnish an opportunity for college education to youths who but for them could not obtain it.

Whether they teach or not after graduation it is to the state's advantage to have in its citizenship these men and women who have studied the higher branches of education and thus have fitted themselves culturally for leadership in activities that will promote the welfare of Pennsylvania.

The 14 Teachers' Colleges are all filled to capacity. To close any of them would be a serious mistake.

Public Hunting Grounds

The Commonwealth Is Steadily Adding to Its Land Holdings and Putting Them to Use.

The State Game Commission announces that within the last few weeks it has bought 7,246 additional acres for use as public hunting grounds. The new acquisitions are in Lycoming, Bedford, Fulton and Venango counties.

The Department of Forests and Waters holds close to 1,500,000 acres of state forests, and from time to time adds to the acreage.

Game and forest lands are for the most part unfit for any other purpose. The commonwealth is rendering a service, that could not easily be obtained otherwise, in thus putting this idle land to good use.

Only Bones to Pick

By Nelson Harding

The cow was formerly well fed
And gave rich milk in days of yore,
But slowly starved in barren fields,

And still the ever-hungry crows
Come back again, and yet again—
A ravenous, persistent flock—
To pick the bones that still remain.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

To a Poet

Weave me music out of words
Like the song of violin,
Clear and sweet as mating birds,

Weave them blithely, out and in,
Rhymes involved and intricate,
As a spinner joys to spin.

As a weaver is like fate,
Weaving threads in fair design,
So your verses, soon or late.

And, like fate, unfold a tale,
Merry, tragic, base or fine.

Silver music, like the flute
Whose sheer music can prevail
When the violins are mute;
Weave me music like the flute!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Diary of a modern Pepys: A screed from Dr. Henderson, of Seaside, Ore., who tells of officiating at my birth and seems not cast down. And regaled at breakfast by Irvin Cobb's tayles of a deer hunt in old Mexico with Mike Hogg and the aged Spanish cavalier, Raymondo Dicksonya.

To a matinee, and, so bewildered over directions in leaving a theater in daylight, I boarded a bus home. Then to the Arthur Samuels, and the Bernard Gimbles there. So, back to my donjon to recapture the lost work-day. But Lisle Bell came with a jig-saw puzzle, and that ended that.

Dined with the Isaac Marcossons, a farewell against their long journey, and so heavily holpen to this dish and that, sat afterward before an open fire in bright glow. On the way home, looked in on Clara Walsh's shing-dig to Amos 'n' Andy with the guests in plantation regalia. To bed late.

Like dramatic critics, a book critic is once in awhile, too, told "to go write a book yourself." Isabel Paterson, a New York critic, did. And with such excellence it was immediately selected by the Literary Guild for the month. Miss Paterson came out of the West and has held down some 30 jobs, including one of bookkeeping. She has an Anita Loos coyness about revealing her age, declaring, and rightly, it's no one's business.

Some wag, Frank Sullivan, I think, calls it the a la carte era. Anyway, lunch wagons are doing the whoopingest business of their career. Many who never visited such plebeian havens are being diverted by the rowdiness of the clientele and the tang of the food. Even that accomplished diner-out, Charles Hanson Towne, tossed a binge recently in the finest in the city, situated on an upper reach of Broadway. The grandest lunch wagon in the world is at Forest Hills, L. I.

In Brooklyn, an "After 40 Club" holds an annual dinner—sans publicity. Members are those who failed in every undertaking until after 40. Now they are mostly in the 60's, and out of a roster of nearly 100, nine are millionaires. Among demands of membership—one must own his own business and home. Which, in these days, is in the way of being something of a careerist.

A Turkish bath in mid-town is in neat connivance with philandering and stay-out husbands. A hearth-strayer told me of such co-operation, and a minute ago I had my wife 'phone the place and inquire for me. A voice explained I was there but was in the steam room and could not come to the 'phone. And so sweeping is suggestion, I find it difficult not to assume an air of injured innocence. You know! You will be suspicious of me when I was at a Turkish bath all the while! All the while, I was!

The large estate of Dwight Morrow is said to have been in the best state of liquidity of any millionaire who has passed on in the past three years. When Mr. Morrow gave up business for public life, he converted all his stocks and bonds into government securities to avoid implications of political preferences. As sales were made at boom prices, his estate doubled.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Husbands are having a hard time.

You don't believe it? You should read my mail! Particularly if you're a wife you should read those letters, for you're the why and wherefore of them, lady.

"Cry baby letters?"

Not a bit of it! Upstanding, two-fisted communications from fine fellows who are trying to weather through—and having the heck of a time.

It's all about this job situation. Working wives and idle husbands. Men depending on women for their daily bread—and choking over the bread. And the wives exasperated to the point where they hardly care whether they choke or not!

Maybe they shouldn't, or maybe they should. No space to argue that here. The point is, millions of wives ARE holding jobs, and millions of husbands AREN'T—and it's causing an entirely new kind of domestic rumpus.

Even if you could take all the women out of jobs and put all the men back into them, it wouldn't solve this new dilemma. For when women stepped into industry something happened to husband which had never happened before in the history of the race.

THEIR SMUG SENSE OF SE SUPERIORITY WAS KNOCKE INTO A COCKED HAT—

AND THE HUSBANDS CAN'T TAKE IT!

That's not surprising. Since times immemorial women have been considered the weaker sex and the man has been boss. It was unthinkable that he should be anything but boss. Wasn't he the stronger, the smarter? Didn't he know more about the world? How could the Little Woman possibly manage without his guidance? She couldn't. And that was that.

But now, suddenly, she IS managing! She is managing very nicely. She is proving that she's fully as able to be the Head of the House as any husband. And her deposed Lord and Master watches her performance with bitter bewilderment and angry humiliation—then proceeds to go into a tantrum.

Whereupon the wife gets ornery, too. She doesn't mean to be ornery about her new-found power, at the start. She fully intends to be a loyal and loving partner.

"What difference does it make, dear, which one of us works? You've always carried the load; why shouldn't I help now?" she cries. And both she and her husband honestly believe that it won't make any difference.

But presently the man of the house begins to realize that it's making the whale of a difference. The Dear Little Woman no longer leans on him; no longer asks for his advice or permission. In short, she treats him exactly as husbands have always treated wives. But he doesn't remember that. He only knows that he is being slighted.

So he tries to regain his lost standing by bullying, heckling, criticizing. If that won't work, he proceeds to wallow in self-pity and resentment. When this, too, fails, he resorts to the last expedient—the expedient which has served so many peevish wives for so many rebellious centuries—HE GETS SICK; develops indigestion, "billious headaches," rheumatism—ANYTHING TO SAVE HIS FACE!

And, in the meanwhile, the hard-working wife also becomes sorry for herself. Her attitude changes from love to pity, from pity to contempt, from contempt to downright anger and dislike. So the Big Blow-up comes!

Millions of American homes in a jam like that. What's the cure? We can't turn back the hands of time. Never again will woman take the role of the clinging vine, having once learned that she can be the sturdy oak.

So then, what? Will husbands have to change their attitude toward marriage? If so, how?

Will society invent, as it so often has done before, a new form of marriage? If so, what?

Have you the answers?

Text for Today

God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble.—Psalms, xlvi:1.

Banking Reform Needed

The Entire System Should Be Overhauled to Prevent Recurrence of Damage

By JULIUS G. BERENS,
Financial Editor, New York American.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED banks failed in 1932.

Ten thousand banks have failed since 1920.

Despite the disaster wrought by this wholesale closing of banks throughout the country during a single decade, the banking fraternity thus far has escaped major reform.

The entire commercial banking structure should be overhauled if this maximum undertaking is necessary to prevent recurrence of the colossal damage done by wholesale closing of banking institutions.

It will not suffice to charge the staggering number of bank failures solely to ignorance of banking principles.

It will not suffice to say that banks which closed "should never have been granted charters." It cannot be charged that all banks which closed suffered from improper or incompetent management.

It is colossal impudence to assert, as does the American Bankers Association, "that, to the extent that the banks which have been removed from the banking structure belonged in these foregoing classes, there has been a salutary elimination of undesirable elements and causes of weakness that reacted against all banking."

THE AMERICAN public has paid dearly for this "elimination." Hundreds of millions of dollars have been irretrievably lost in bank closings. Millions upon millions of dollars have become frozen.

The banking fraternity voluntarily has accomplished nothing toward elimination of the dangerous practices which have brought ruin to thousands of banks, and untold injury to the millions dependent upon these banks for safety of their savings, for credit, for means of carrying on their personal and business activities.

TO BANKERS, the crisis has been chiefly a struggle for individual existence, without much appreciation for the vaster consequences to the public welfare.

The American Bankers Association, through its economic policy commission, has stated this self-satisfied view:

"For the greater part, the further strengthening and readjustments desirable in the banking structure will come in due course from other than legislative sources."

Bankers traditionally oppose reform of any nature. They bicker among themselves for selfish advantages while major public benefits are neglected.

The nation's bankers have no reason whatsoever to be proud of their record in recent years. Certainly, they have not improved their prestige.

Yet almost in unison bankers violently oppose "external interference" which seeks to improve the lot of the public through such reforms as seem warranted not only because of the depression but rather to prevent the same difficulties from reappearing whether in depression or in more normal periods.

PRIMARILY, SOLUTION OF THE BANKING PROBLEM LIES IN THE RESUMPTION OF STRICTLY BANKING BUSINESS BY THE BANKS.

If the bankers of the nation would appreciate their proper role in the economic machinery, there would be little need for reform. This whole discourse, of course, refers solely to the commercial banks, those who seek the public's funds for safekeeping and for use in legitimate business for ordinary commercial purposes.

One of the major difficulties has been the failure of the banks to recognize their role is distinct from that of the investment banker, whose function is to supply the long-term and promotional capital needs of business.

THERE ARE sensible reforms advocated, but the banks refuse to swallow the medicine.

Circumstances, however, and the public welfare demand that far-reaching readjustments be made in the banking structure of the nation.

These reforms will be advanced in subsequent articles.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

The young fellows are not alone in a spirit of recklessness in driving home late at night from social occasions of some kind.

It is surprising how men of mature years, old enough to know better, will tempt fate, especially if liquid refreshments have been imbibed.

The man who considers himself a good driver is the most confident of his ability to drive when he has partaken of alcoholic drinks.

If the owner of the car, he is sure to insist upon driving, notwithstanding those less affected may be more capable of piloting the crowd.

Some men don't need to take much before they become unsteady in hand and uncertain in measuring distances and a menace to traffic and to their companions.

Do you flirt with death for yourself and others in a way that you would criticize if your head were perfectly clear?
